Hurrah! for summer special-needs club

By Jennifer Lewis

Although the teen members of Club Hurrah have learning disabilities, Down syndrome, cerebral palsy, language disorders and several types of mental retardation, Diana Neel, the group's director, said they are not much different from other teens.

"Their mental age may be younger but their bodies, feelings and problems are the same. They have feelings and most know how different they are," she said.

"Our goal is to foster a little independence with all of them," Ms. Neel said. "They are teenagers now."

Club Hurrah works to integrate special-needs teens into the community through the club's motto of "safety, independence, appropriate and, most important, fun."

The program was started by the Alternative Leisure Company in 1988 through the Department of Community Services and was directed by Norma Ventre.

Because of an illness in Ms. Ventre's family, Ms. Neel, a special education teacher from Methuen, is directing the six-week program this summer.

"Club Hurrah used to be at Phillips Academy for children [and teens] ages 7 to 21," Ms. Neel said. "But parents of the older kids asked for more life skills and more involvement in the community."

The current age range of the group is from 16-22 and the new base of the program is at Doherty Middle School.

"These kids become your kids; you do so much for them," Ms. Neel said. "You become a mother, nurse, counselor and confidant."

In-town activities throughout the summer have included visits to the fire and police stations, a trip to the water treatment plant,

Town officials name new library director

By Lisa Boudreau

James Sutton, a career library administrator, will be Memorial Hall Library's new director as of Monday, Sept. 13. Mr. Sutton, 46, has been the director of Morse Institute, Natick's public library for the past 14 years.

He was chosen from a field of 48 candidates by Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. Selectmen approved his appointment at their Monday night meeting this week.

"I feel very honored. Andover is a beautiful community and the library is one that library users and professionals look to as a model," said Mr. Sutton, who lives in West Newton.

"It is a wonderful and updated facility with an enthusiastic staff," he added.

Mr. Sutton will replace outgoing director Nancy Jacobson, who retired this summer after 22 years at the library - 19 as director. Mr. Sutton said his transition into the post will be very similar to his transition 14 years ago, when he assumed the library directorship in Natick. In Natick Mr. Sutton replaced a director who ran the library there for more than 20 years.

"I expect that there will be expectations that people will have for the new library director. The person coming in will be held to past standards," Mr. Sutton said.

He describes his management style as shared-decision-making. He plans to solicit input from library staff, trustees and patrons whenever possible.

"There has to be change as libraries grow to handle the needs of people and how they

When 4 cents equals a dollar

Julia had two one-dollar food stamps, one for milk and one for bread. It was the 25-year-old Andover resident's first time to the grocery store alone and her mom had told her how many food stamps she'd need. Each item was 99 cents, so she was to give the two food stamps to the cashier then put out her hand for the two cents change. But that's not what happened.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Wilmington man kills self at town line after chase

By Don Staruk

A Wilmington man reported to have stolen a gun from a friend in Lowell led police on a pursuit through Tewksbury and Wilmington before he shot and killed himself after police cornered him on Route 125 at the Andover line at about 11:30 a.m. last Sunday, Aug. 8.

The chase ended between Ballardvale Street and South Main Street on Route 125. Traffic was detoured around the scene until about 2:30 p.m.

Michael Lacey, 27, of 3 Biggar Ave., Wilmington, shot and killed himself in his pickup truck after he was boxed in and stopped by four cruisers, two from Wilmington and two from Tewksbury, according to Wilmington's Deputy Police Chief Bernard Nally.

The incident began when police received word that the occupant of the pickup truck had taken a gun from a friend's house in Lowell and was possibly headed to his girlfriend's house, off County Road in Tewksbury. He was allegedly despondent over a family matter, according to published reports.

Tewksbury police attempted to stop the vehicle, but Mr. Lacey fled. The pursuit went to Salem Street in Wilmington and over Interstate 93 on Route 125 toward Andover. The four cruisers made an attempt to stop the vehicle in what the officers considered a somewhat isolated area and where guardrails narrowed the roadway, according to the deputy chief.

When the cruisers attempted to stop the pickup, a late model Chevrolet with oversized tires, Mr. Lacey sideswiped the side of one Tewksbury cruiser, but the other managed to get in front of the pickup and slow it down, and the four cars boxed him in.

"Then the fella refused to get out of the truck and he shot himself," the deputy chief said.

An Andover resident who witnessed the finale of the chase on Route 125 said the car she was riding in was traveling in the opposite direction and was forced onto the shoulder as the police cars were attempting to stop the truck on Route 125, just west of South Main Street.

Blood drive set for Aug. 23

A consortium of local organizations invites the residents and neighbors of Andover, North Andover and Lawrence to a Friends and Neighbors blood drive, Monday, Aug. 23, from 2 to 8 p.m. at Old Town Hall at 20 Main St.

The blood drive's supporters encourage their friends and neighbors to join this grass-roots, multicomunity effort to donate 200 units of blood for area patients. As of this writing, supporters include the town of Andover, Perfecto's Cafe in Andover, churches in Andover, North Andover and Lawrence, Andover Savings Bank, CVS/Pharmacy and small businesses in Andover, Andover High School students and the Merrimack Valley Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Perfecto's Cafe will provide bagels and muffins and the blood drive facility will be air-conditioned.

Donors must be in good health, at least 18 years old (17 with a signed American Red Cross parental or guardian consent form), weigh at least 105 pounds and have no history of exposure to hepatitis or the AIDS virus. There is no age limit for donors and most medications are acceptable.

To schedule a donation appointment, call the American Red Cross at 1-800-922-4376. Volunteers are needed to help at the drive; those interested should call the same phone number.

Revaluation reinspections near completion

By Don Staruk

William Krajewski, assessor, told the board Monday night that the physical reinspection of all property in Andover for revaluation purposes is about two-thirds complete, and that he expects to complete that phase of the process by the first week in September.

The town hired Patriot Properties Inc. to perform the residential inspections. Residential properties were divided into nine areas of about 900 homes each, and addressed one section at a time beginning in April.

"As of Aug. 1, 1993, the first six sections of the town have been notified and listing is nearly complete. Homes that were not entered in these first phases are now being canvassed by mail for data verification," Mr. Krajewski wrote in a memo to the board.

The Department of Revenue is scheduled to review and give initial approval to the assessments by mid-October. The assessor will then notify each homeowner of his or her new property value.

Opportunities will then be made for homeowners to question the assessments so that any mistakes can be brought to light, Mr. Krajewski told the board.

Mr. Krajewski anticipates giving the board the information necessary to decide tax rates for fiscal '94 by early to mid-November.

Cyclist raises research money with 192-mile weekend ride

By Lisa Boudreau

Lisa Alecci Hartel rode her bicycle 192 miles last weekend, Aug. 7 and 8, to raise money — almost $4,000 — to support cancer research at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Ms. Alecci Hartel, of 66 Wild Rose Drive, and her training partner, Paul Lightfoot, of 34 Chandler Road, have more than just a Good Samaritan-interest in raising money for worthy causes. Their lives have each been affected by cancer.

Mr. Lightfoot is a cancer survivor and Ms. Alecci Hartel's 4-year-old daughter Jill is in remission after being diagnosed with, and treated for, leukemia last year.

Ms. Alecci Hartel and Mr. Lightfoot were among the more than 1,500 cyclists who rode from Sturbridge through 29 communities during the two-day trek to finish at Provincetown Sunday night. Event organizers expect to raise more than $10 million once all the pledges are counted.

"When something like (cancer) happens to a child you feel absolutely helpless," Ms. Alecci Hartel said during an interview at her home a few days before the bike-a-thon last week.

Soliciting pledges and making "this ride is sort of my way of doing something. You can't choose whether or not your child is going to have leukemia, but you can choose how you are going to deal with it," Ms. Alecci Hartel said.

Last September she and her husband, Steve Hartel, began noticing

Jill Hartel, 4, and her mom, Lisa Alecci Hartel

that Jill, who has a twin sister, Lauren, was running a chronic, low-grade fever, wasn't feeling well and was showing bruises in odd places, on her stomach, for instance. Following several visits to doctors, Jill was diagnosed with leukemia.

Doctors began treating Jill aggressively with radiation- and chemotherapy right away. The first weeks and months of her treatments were "just awful," her mother said. Jill spent almost all of that time at Dana-Farber in Boston. Jill was then able to go home and return to the clinic a few times a week, then just once every three weeks.

"We all went through such a long haul to get Jill into remission and now she looks and acts like a plain, old healthy kid," said Ms. Alecci Hartel.

On a recent day Jill had her first haircut since her blond curls fell out last fall.

"We involved Jill with her treatment from the very beginning," said Ms. Alecci Hartel.

Jill can recite the multi-syllable names of her medications and she grins when she she has impressed a visitor.

Jill's courageous battles with nausea, fatigue and hair loss out have been an example for her mother to follow during her cycling training.

"Seeing her do all that tough stuff and coming through so well gives me strength. When I'm going up a hill I tell myself that I'm not going to give up, and that I can do it," she said.

Ms. Alecci Hartel's preparation for the bike-a-thon has been a family activity. The

Andover riders participate in the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge

Three other Andover riders participated in the two-day Pan-Massachusetts Challenge. For two it was their second time cycling 192-miles to raise money for cancer research.

But for Philip Sasso of Hidden Road, it was his first time riding across the state to raise money for Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

"It was a very rewarding experience and a real challenge," said Mr. Sasso, who describes himself as a recreational cyclist. He said he stepped up his training two months ago to 120 miles each week in preparation for the event last weekend.

"I have a history of cancer in my family," said Mr. Sasso who added that everyone he talked to who was involved in the event was somehow affected by cancer.

"It was a very personal thing for each person, but at the same time we all had that in common," he said.

Not all middle-school grads are headed to AHS next month

By Lisa Boudreau

The number of graduating eighth-graders from West Middle School who will attend private high schools this fall instead of Andover High School has doubled compared to last year. But the number from Doherty Middle School who are going to private high school dropped by six students from last year's figures.

Principals from both middle schools and the high school say they are not concerned that the number of students exiting the public school system is growing, because school department figures show that the numbers go up and down in no particular pattern.

"If I looked at just last year I'd be shocked," said Tim Thomas, AHS principal.

"But, when you look at the past four years, you feel more comfortable," he said, because the numbers have remained about the same overall.

During the past five years, since Andover adopted a grade six-through-eight middle-school format, the number of students leaving the public school system after the eighth grade for a private high school education has gone up and down. It was at an all-time high of 74 during the '90-'91 school year. The number dropped to 56 the following year. Last year 60 students combined from West and Doherty middle schools enrolled at private schools for their ninth-grade year.

According to Mr. Thomas, the majority of the students who leave the public school system enroll at Phillips Academy. The remainder, he said, go to local prep and parochial schools, including Brooks School in North Andover, St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers,

BUSINESS

Murray Fish named CEO of software firm

RealWorld Corporation of Concord, N.H., has announced the promotion of Murray P. Fish of Andover to chief executive officer and president.

Mr. Fish replaces Larry Brennan who will pursue a new business opportunity with a startup software company in New Hampshire.

"Murray's financial background, along with his grasp of the computer industry, emerging technologies and the reseller channel will ensure RealWorld's position as a top accounting software developer," said Mr. Brennan.

Mr. Fish joined RealWorld in April 1991 as chief financial officer, and was appointed chief operating officer in January 1993. Prior to joining RealWorld, he was vice president and controller for a $180 million manufacturing group in Boston.

Mr. Fish is an active member of AICPA, NHCPA and MSCPA societies, as well as the Financial Executives Institute.

He said that his first priorities as RealWorld's new CEO will be "to restructure RealWorld's reseller program to better support our preferred and advanced dealers," and "to increase our investment in new technology and product development."

RealWorld is a manufacturer of business and accounting software with offices in Concord, N.H., and Clearwater, Fla.

Greater Lawrence Board of Realtors has a heart!

The Greater Lawrence Board of Realtors is involved in many community service programs with the Leahy School in Lawrence throughout the year.

The board "adopted" the Leahy School through the Business Education Collaborative, and throughout the year, many events and projects are scheduled to benefit the school by the Community Service Committee.

There is a learn-to-swim program at the school and the realtors donate the funds, as well as volunteering as chaperones, for the buses needed to transport the children to the pool.

Many times during the week, local realtors read to the children as part of the read aloud program.

Ed Bloom, the committee's chairman, created the special needs children's field trip and in June, approximately 18 special needs children and their teaching staff are bused to Methuen Memorial Park for three hours of fun, games and lunch. Each child is assigned to a realtor, to relieve the teachers and staff for a while.

At the end of the school year, the realtors sponsor a spaghetti dinner for the graduating students. The realtors eagerly wait for this event each year because, they say, it's fun.

During the winter season, the projects include mitten and coat donations to the Leahy School, Lazarus House, Salvation Army and the Red Cross.

In the spirit of the Christmas season, Santa comes to the Leahy School to deliver the results of the realtor toys for the needy drive. The children are asked to write Santa their holiday wishes. At the regular Tuesday business meeting for realtors, the committee chairman made an appeal to the realtors and explained the wishes. The original requests were filled and each child received a toy.

It takes many hours of planning and many donations to accomplish the events throughout the year. Some of the other board-sponsored events include giving four scholarships to local high school graduates, donating two copiers and a word processor to the Boys and Girls Club of Lawrence, giving donations to the Lazarus House and a sponsoring a food drive for Neighbors in Need.

The Realtors also have participated in judging the Special Olympics and the Leahy School science fair projects.

The Townsmen is accepting nominations for its special section, Women in Business, to be published Oct. 21. John Carlson of Andover with his recently published book: The Executive's Guide to Controlling Health Care and Disability Costs.

Controlling health-care costs

Local author writes about sick time, overtime, compensation ...

Health care reform has long been in the news so one might conclude all angles have been covered. Yet, author John Carlson of Andover is bringing some innovative approaches to how employers can manage this critical issue, in a book just released by John Wiley & Sons.

The Executive's Guide to Controlling Health Care and Disability Costs demonstrates that the way to gain control over costs is to look at the issue in broader terms. Control over costs does not come from the benefits funded, but through implementation of a range of effective internal and external health, safety, health care and disability programs. Through a comprehensive strategy and related management action plan, the author shows how to address not only health-care costs, but the costs of workers' compensation, disability, sick time, absenteeism, overtime and staff replacement.

Although the focus is on costs, the approach used represents quality management strategies and tools applied in a whole new way. Care delivery is only

Federal bank commends Andover Bank

Andover Bank has received a formal commendation from the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston in recognition of the bank's participation and commitment to creating housing opportunities and to helping meet specialized community credit needs, through the Community Investment Program (CIP) and the New England Housing Fund (NEHF) of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston commended Andover Bank for its use of the CIP to provide $11,250,000 in below market financing to fund a variety of single- and multi-family mortgages totaling 103 units of housing for very low-, low- and moderate-income households in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

The bank was also commended for its use of the New England Housing Fund (NEHF) to provide $9,785,000 in below-market financing to fund its First Time Home Buyer Program for moderate income families throughout Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

The main focus of both of these programs is to provide reduced-rate loans for affordable housing and community revitalization.

Genetics reaches $1 billion milestone

Genetics Institute, which has offices in Andover as well as in Cambridge, achieved a milestone recently when its total market capitalization reached $1 billion for the first time in the company's history.

The $1 billion market figure is based on 26.1 million shares outstanding, at a price per share of $38 3/8 or greater. The stock price closed at $38 3/8 Monday, Aug. 2.

part of the issue as employers are shown that the key to addressing causes of costs is to work cooperatively with their own employees. The book develops methods to empower supervisors and employees to respond to a wide range of modern health, safety and disability issues through "an information age health" approach. Even work-family issues are addressed in this context based on a new management concept - health-related productivity.

The Executive's Guide integrates a seemingly unrelated set of issues into one comprehensive strategy and management system. The book is intended to act as a bridge between the interests of line and financial management and the internal and external specialists involved in risk, health, safety, health care and disability. So the book is written to provide value in total, or sections, or chapters, depending on the interests of employer management.

Writing a comprehensive book on such critical regional and national issues was no small undertaking. Mr. Carlson developed his management insights during a 17-year professional career in electronics and health care, including positions as chief financial officer of two organizations and president of a national rehabilitation provider. He has 10 years of hands-on experience in total quality management in these capacities. About six years ago, he began to write articles, some of which are included in the book. While attending and speaking at numerous conferences, he learned from various experts and connected with his co-author, Bruce Barge.

While writing the book for the last 15 months, Mr. Carlson simultaneously developed a "systems" technology for the management approaches contained in the book through his company, RHM Systems of Marlboro.

He is now devoting more time to his company, but is actively involved in book promotion.

Mr. Carlson lives in West Andover with his wife and two children. The Executive's Guide is for sale at the Andover Bookstore.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

READY FOR A GOOD LAUGH?

It stands to reason that the more stress placed on the weight-bearing lower back, the more susceptible it is to injury. To study the risk of back pain, Swedish researchers compared the amounts of stress that the back sustains during a variety of activities. Not surprisingly, lying down was the least stressful to the back, exerting just 66 pounds of pressure on the back of a 150-pound adult. Hardly an eyebrow was raised when it was revealed that lifting an object without bending the knees placed the most pressure (748 pounds) on the back. Who would have guessed, however, that coughing (242 pounds) and laughing (264 pounds) placed more pressure on the back than twisting (198 pounds) or walking (187 pounds)? Back pain, it seems, can be triggered by the most unsuspected exertions.

If you suffer with back pain you are not alone. We can show you how to prevent stress on your body and restore and maintain your health. Please call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. We offer natural and safe care for the entire family and accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. The Swedish study mentioned above measured an activity's pressure on the back by virtue of an electronic gauge implanted on the third lumbar vertebra of a healthy woman.

AHS '84 grad slain by husband in apparent murder-suicide

By Don Staruk

Tina (Sutton) McLeod, 26, a 1984 Andover High School graduate, was shot and killed by her estranged husband Monday morning, Aug. 9, in Salem, N.H. Her husband, Scott McLeod, 29, killed himself after shooting his wife.

The deadly rampage began Monday morning when Mr. McLeod went to the apartment where his wife was staying with a friend on Thornton Street in June 30, 1992

Lawrence. He allegedly waited outside the duplex until his wife came out of the house to go to her job at Merrimack College at about 8:45 a.m. He abducted her, dragging her screaming into a car, and drove her to their former residence at 179B Lowell Road in Salem, N.H., where, closely pursued by a Methuen patrolwoman, he shot his wife in the head as she attempted to flee from the car in the driveway. He then shot himself. His gun was a 10-mm. semi-automatic pistol, for which he had a permit.

Ms. McLeod died at Holy Family Hospital. Mr. McLeod died at Lawrence General. The McLeods were married June 30, 1992, but had separated about four months ago, according to published reports. Ms. McLeod had been staying at her friend's Thornton Street duplex while going through the separation. She was employed as a college publications editor at Merrimack College.

She was a member of the ski team three years while at Andover High School, from her sophomore year until she graduated in 1984. Her father, Thomas "Ted" Sutton Jr., was an Andover firefighter for 22 years and retired as a lieutenant in 1988, before the family, including her mother, Herta, and younger brother, Thomas Sutton III, moved from their home at 15 Center St. in Ballard-vale to upstate New Hampshire.

Mr. McLeod, 29, still lived at the Lowell Road home in Salem where the shootings occurred. The son of Donald and Jacqueline McLeod, of Millpond, North Andover, he had owned an automotive repair shop in Methuen, but more recently started a new business venture in Lincoln, N.H., which had failed, according to published reports.

HALTING THE BLISTERING

There is some heartening news for the estimated one-third of the population who experience the blisters on their lips commonly known as cold sores (herpes labialis). Some ten percent of this number experience frequent occurrences consisting of six outbreaks or more a year. Now, the first study to determine the long-term effect of the antiviral drug acyclovir has shown some success in treating fever blisters. According to researchers from the National Institute of Dental Research and the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, daily treatment with oral acyclovir in the long-term produces daily treatment with oral acyclovir in the long-term produces 53 percent fewer episodes of fever blisters. When blisters did appear, acyclovir treatment caused them to heal more quickly. The FDA currently approves acyclovir for treating oral herpes.

School finalists

tor for the Rockport public schools; and Kevin Oliver, the current business manager of the Melrose public schools.

Although education reform laws now place sole responsibility for hiring school personnel in the hands of the superintendent, Dr. McQuillan told the committee he will continue to keep members informed about hiring decisions. Before the law changed, all school personnel appointments had to be approved by the School Committee.

The finalists were interviewed by four of the five School Committee members Tuesday evening as part of Dr. McQuillan's plan to keep members apprised of personnel matters. Bill Huston was not at the meeting.

The person chosen will replace acting business manager David Reilly, who is also the school department's accountant. Mr. Reilly assumed the business manager's responsibilities when Frank Paul retired in February.

Mr. Reilly had been a finalist for the business manager position, but he withdrew his candidacy after he was hired last week to be Andover's new collector/treasurer. He will leave the school department after the start of school to assume his new position.

Frank Colvario

Mr. Colvario, 46, is currently self-employed as a private financial consultant to schools and industry. From 1991 to 1992 he was director of finance for Merrimack Education Center, a private school. Before that he was the controller and assistant superintendent of the Dover-Sherborn regional schools.

He also has experience in other lead financial roles for the Burlington and Boston public schools. Mr. Colvario was also a private consultant to cities and towns in the areas of management and transportation.

He has a master's degree in accounting from Suffolk University and a master's degree in business education from Boston University.

Mr. Colvario said his work in the public education field during the past 15 years was rewarding and that he'd like to return to that field. He told the committee his experience with town and school officials in other communities would be an asset to Andover.

Mr. Colvario said he has worked to obtain grants and loans to fund school programs and building project in other communities.

"I am energetic and I come (to Andover) with a high level of accomplishment and integrity," said Mr. Colvario, who added that his experience in negotiating contracts is another one of his skills.

He said his expertise in dealing with "emergencies, planning and research" sets him apart from the other candidates.

"I'm better at reacting to these things because of the various experiences I've had with dealing with a variety of people and situations.

Mr. Colvario lives in Boston with his wife, Mary. The couple has a daughter, who enters the seventh grade in the fall.

Gail Zeman

Besides being the financial officer for the Rockport public schools, Ms. Zeman, 47, also has worked in the public relations and accounting fields for private industries. For the past 12 years she has worked for the Rockport public schools.

Ms. Zeman has a bachelor's degree in journalism from Northwestern University and she is enrolled in a master's program at Boston College.

She said her involvement with overseeing Rockport's $17-million school renovation projects and her hands-on experience in running all aspects of a small school system set her apart from the other candidates.

"I've done everything from the regular duties associated with business manager's role to supervising food services, transportation and some legal and insurance matters," she said.

"My experience in these areas, plus having the opportunity to do so many things that in a larger system would be divided up, gives me the confidence," to meet the challenges a position in Andover would present, Ms. Zeman said.

She said the key to doing all the jobs that she does in Rockport is hiring responsible people who know their jobs. Ms. Zeman said she prefers a shared management approach. "I don't like to micro-manage," she said.

Working in Andover "is an opportunity that excites me a great deal, because of the town's reputation for valuing education. Clearly things are happening - the school building projects and the developmental elementary programs," Ms. Zeman said.

She lives in Rockport with her husband, Phillip. The couple has two adult sons.

Kevin Oliver

Mr. Oliver, 50, is the current business manager for the Melrose public schools, a position he's held since 1986. Before that he was the business manager for the Holliston public schools for four years. He also taught fourth and fifth grade in Somerville.

Mr. Oliver has held several positions within the city of Somerville, including superintendent of recreation, commissioner of public works and superintendent of highways.

He has a master's degree in education from Boston State College and a certificate of advanced graduate study from UMass.

Mr. Oliver said his experience with managing the budget for the Melrose school system, which cut 80 positions systemwide during the past few years, and his experience with working in both school and municipal departments, sets him apart from the other candidates.

He said he enjoyed his tenure in Hollis-

ton and would like to return to working in a town.

"Andover is one of the most respected school systems in the commonwealth. I'm interested in towns, and Andover seems like a very nice place. All the people I've met so far are very nice, too," Mr. Oliver said.

During his tenure with the the Melrose schools and Somerville city departments, Mr. Oliver said he's worked closely on school maintenance and building projects. This experience, he said, is an added qualification he would bring to the business manager's position in Andover.

Dr. McQuillan told the committee he plans to announce his choice for business manager by the end of this week.

AHS grads guide seniors toward college

By Chris Stamm

Many Andover High students headed into their senior year are beginning the college search- and- application process. Here's what they are asking: "What do I look for in a school?" "Will I be accepted?" "How do I write a good essay?" So we asked last year's graduates to answer these questions in effort to point seniors in the right direction.

What should seniors be looking for in a school? Andover High School graduate Ben Moyer, 9 Dartmouth Road, who will attend the University of Vermont, believes the most important characteristic is academic reputation.

"When you graduate and look for a job, people look at the school you attended," he said.

On the other hand, Amanda Holmes, 40 Osgood Road, who will be attending the University of New Hampshire, simply suggests, "Visit and get a feel for the school. Make sure you feel comfortable there and that you're not just applying because of the school's name."

At times, many students feel that it is tough sorting out conflicting advice such as this. They believe that the guidance department at AHS is a good place to start.

"Talk to your guidance counselors. They know everything about different schools and are really helpful," said Sarah Witham, 9 Farrwood Drive, who will attend Wheaton College.

"You have to go to the guidance department if you want help or suggestions. The counselors know what you should do, but they have too many students to go looking for you," said Mr. Moyer.

Once the student has a few schools in mind, the graduates strongly recommend beginning work on the applications.

As Ms. Witham advises, "Get applications in as early as possible. Make sure to take advantage of non-binding early notification or rolling admission. That way you find out if you are accepted earlier and once you are accepted to a few schools, you really feel relieved."

Ms. Holmes adds, "Set aside some time on weekends just to work on applications and essays, otherwise you'll be trying to get them done the day before they're due," because haste makes waste.

Don't assume that just because thousands of students may be applying to a particular school, they won't have time to look at your essay. As Mr. Moyer stated, "Write a good essay, especially for smaller schools because they look at every little bit of the application."

Unfortunately, the stress does not end when that final application is dropped into the mailbox. From what the graduates had to say, this is when nerves really begin to jangle. "Kids who applied early found out from schools earlier, so you can get pretty nervous when a friend has been accepted to a school that you still haven't heard from," said Mr. Moyer.

Add to this the tension of being placed on a waiting list, and students become very anxious. Ask Becca Morrison of 20 Hall Ave., who will be attending Northwestern University. She was wait-listed at her first choice and did not find out until a few weeks ago that she would be able to enroll. "It was hard to withdraw my acceptance at my other school, and I lost my deposit, but it wasn't really a big deal. The worst part was feeling that my grades had to be really good all year because I was wait-listed, and I knew the school would see what I had done all year."

Once you're in, you still face some decisions. "A lot had to do with location. I went to a campus open house and talked to students and faculty members and realized that this was a place I would like to attend," said Ms. Witham.

Similarly, Mr. Moyer states, "I had saved all the information I got from tours and looked at all of that again and then looked over stuff like the campus, library, and overall atmosphere and then chose the school that had the most of what I wanted."

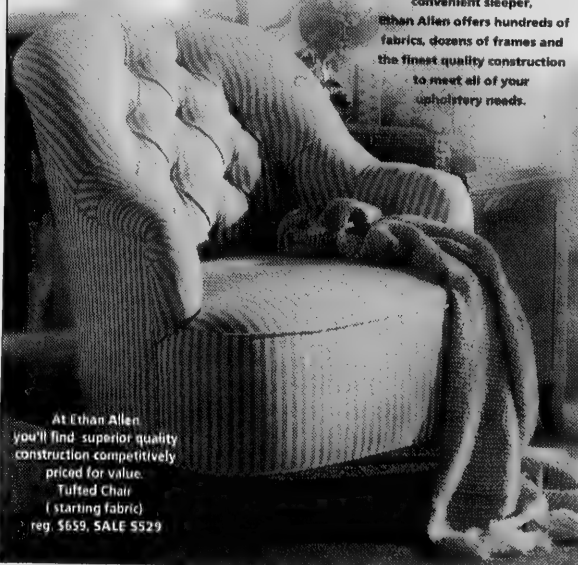

Chris Stamm, a senior at Andover High School, writes for the Townsman.

Parents-to-be: take childbirth classes close to home

There's no need to go all the way to Boston for childbirth education classes. Winchester Hospital offers educational programs on childbearing that parents-to-be can take closer to home.

Winchester Hospital offers a unique, one-day childbirth program. This program teaches the breathing techniques necessary for birth. Topics will include the phases of labor, various roles of the coach, anesthesia and medications, relaxation techniques and coping mechanisms.

For more in-depth topics and techniques, Winchester Hospital also offers a six-week childbirth education series. In addition to learning breathing techniques and the phases of labor, parents will gain knowledge about routine hospital procedures and learn how to choose a pediatrician.

For dates and price information, call Winchester Hospital's Education Department at (617) 756-2220.

Practical information about weaning and family nutrition will be shared when the Andover Group of La Leche League of Massachusetts/Vermont meet to discuss "Nutrition and Weaning." Women of Andover, North Andover, Lawrence and surrounding towns are invited to attend tonight, Thursday, Aug. 12, at 8 at the home of Janet Hathaway, 26 Enmore St.

This meeting is the last in the current series of four monthly meetings open to nursing mothers and their babies, pregnant and other interested women.

For information, call group leader Jane Richard at 794-4630.

Business community arrests citizens to benefit MDA

Members of the Andover business community were "arrested" last month by Deborah Carnes, Muscular Dystrophy Association sheriff. They were transported by Lemark Limousine service to a "lock-up jail" hosted by TCI Cablevision on Stevens Street and faced the "judge" for sentencing and a souvenir picture taken of each prisoner "behind bars."

Bail was posted at $500 for each person. AT&T sponsored cellular telephones to allow prisoners to raise "bail money" by calling friends and associates. Coffee and donuts were provided. One prisoner stated that "jail" was not too different from his work in that he just sits around talking on the phone and drinking coffee all day.

Once bail was raised, the prisoners were released and driven to their offices. Victoria Flavin, MDA program coordinator, estimated that total bail raised for the day was more than $5,500. For more information on sponsoring a "lock-up" to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, call the MDA offices in Danvers at 777-0333.

Surviving a 'spiritual mismatch'

BrookRidge Community Church will conclude its series on "Strengthening Your Family" Sunday, Aug. 15, at 10:30 a.m. with "How to Survive a Spiritual Mismatch."

A spiritual mismatch in a relationship occurs when one person is at a different place in their spiritual life than their partner. This type of mismatch can cause conflict. An original drama presentation will clarify the conflict and may give hope, humor and understanding to those who are struggling. BrookRidge is a "contemporary, Christ-centered church that seeks to instruct, encourage and support through various contemporary artistic methods, according to a church spokesperson.

BrookRidge Community meets at West Elementary School on Beacon Street. Call 682-3400 for more information.

Town counsel upholds Lt. Mooers' pension

By Don Staruk

Town Counsel Thomas Urbelis last month told the town's retirement board that it has no authority to withhold the pension of former police lieutenant Donald Mooers Jr. as a result of Mr. Mooers pleading guilty to six counts of incest on June 21.

Rodney Smith, town accountant and one of the town's three retirement board members, had asked Mr. Urbelis for an opinion on whether the town had any obligation to halt Mr. Mooers' pension payments following Mr. Mooers guilty plea related to incidents that occurred between 1981-1983, a period during which Mr. Mooers was employed by the town as a police officer.

In an 11-page letter to Mr. Smith on July 6, Mr. Urbelis, quoting from the Massachusetts General Law, said that because Mr. Mooers resigned and was granted his pension prior to the indictment becoming public, "he could not be removed or discharged from his office or position 'due to moral turpitude' and denied his pension under" the General Law.

"It says we have no authority to stop his pension," Mr. Smith said last week.

Mr. Mooers, 53, of Hampton, N.H., was a 23-year veteran of the Andover Police Department when he abruptly retired on Dec. 17, 1991, one day before he was secretly indicted on the six charges of incest against one of his two daughters. His indictment did not become public until he was arraigned on Jan. 6, 1992, a week after the retirement board approved his pension Dec. 30, 1991. On June 21 of this year, he pleaded guilty to the six charges in exchange for a suspended sentence of 7 to 10 years in state prison pending three years of probation.

Mr. Urbelis found that Mr. Mooers did not violate any laws in applying for his pension prior to the indictment becoming public.

"Because no reasons need be set forth in a request for superannuation retirement, it is not possible for the board to maintain that it was defrauded by Mr. Mooers by his failure to state the true reasons for his retirement. Had the board known the true reasons for the resignation, the board might have been able to postpone action on his application until after the criminal charges had been resolved," Mr. Urbelis said.

The laws connecting pensions and crimes committed by public officials were amended in 1988 to include offenses that occurred even off the job but during the period of employment. But because the offenses Mr. Mooers plead guilty to occurred prior to 1988, those amendments do not apply in his case, according to Mr. Urbelis.

"Because the crimes Mr. Mooers plead guilty to were committed prior to the effective date of (the amendments), Jan. 12, 1988, the board is without authority to withhold Mr. Mooers' pension, there being no applicable provision for forfeiture," Mr. Urbelis said.

Because the crimes he pleaded guilty to did not occur while he was on duty or in performance of his job responsibilities, his guilt or innocence does not affect his pension under the old law, according to Mr. Urbelis.

"It is not yet settled that the criminal offenses for which

Mr. Mooers pled guilty 'involve violation of the laws applicable to his office or position as a police officer,'" Mr. Urbelis said.

Mr. Mooers received about $27,000 in termination pay when he retired in 1991. That figure consisted of a percentage of his unused vacation and sick pay. He receives an annual pension of $33,233.00, paid 80 percent by the town and 20 percent from his own contributions. The amount of the pension is based on a combination of his age, average annual salary over his last three years on the job and his years of service.

Mr. Mooers applied for and was given his retirement all in one day, according to Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith said it was obvious that Mr. Mooers appeared distressed and he did not question the former lieutenant as to his motives for retiring at the time.

"Anybody in town can walk in today and say 'I am retiring right now,' and they're entitled to their pension," Mr. Smith said when discussing Mr. Mooers' case in April of this year.

Not all middle-school grads are heading to AHS next month

Central Catholic High School in Lawrence, Governor Dummer Academy in Byfield, Austin Preparatory School in Reading and Pingree School in South Hamilton.

This fall, 37 graduates from WMS and 34 from DMS will not attend the high school. Last year 20 from WMS and 40 from DMS chose to go to a private high school.

According to Sam Campbell, principal of WMS, the majority of eighth-grade graduates from his school who are not going onto the high school - 21 - have told his office that they will attend Phillips Academy in the fall. He said his guidance department's numbers indicating how many students will not go on to the high school don't exactly match Mr. Thomas' figures, because some students have yet to inform WMS of their plans. But according to the information that is available, the second-most popular destination, he said, is St. John's, which attracted three WMS graduates. Two students each will attend Brooks School, Lawrence Academy, the Greater Lawrence Technical School and Notre Dame Academy, he said.

According to Dr. Campbell's figures, one student will attend Central Catholic and one will go to Pingree.

"I don't really see this as a (bad) reflection on the high school. No one has told me that it is a bad thing to send their child to the high school," he said.

Floyd McManus, principal of DMS, agrees that the majority of students who leave his school for private school go to PA. DMS is the neighborhood middle school for children of PA faculty. Those children can attend PA at a discounted tuition, said Jane Fried, acting dean of admission at PA.

Mr. McManus said he is not certain where students are going who do not go to PA, because records are not available in his office.

Phillips Academy

Ms. Fried said the number of freshmen this fall at PA will be larger than last year, including the number of day students, because more students than usual chose to enroll at PA after they were accepted by the school.

"Usually about 80 percent of the students we accept enroll. This year 86 percent did. That is unheard of," said Ms. Fried.

Usually between 22 and 25 percent of the students at PA consists of day students. This fall the freshmen day-student population will be at or above 25 percent, she said. Ms. Fried said the school did not accept more applications than usual and was not trying to enlarge its freshman class.

"For some reason that we are not sure of, more students than normal decided to enroll," she said.

Ms. Fried said her office has seen an increase in the number of applications from Andover public school students. This spring 84 students from both middle schools applied to PA for the 1993-'94 school year. Last year 74 applied and the year before that 58 students applied, she said. For the 1990-'91 school year, there were 68 applications, which was up 12 students from the previous year, she said.

"The overall number of apps from the Andover public schools is up," said Ms. Fried.

Why some parents chose private schools

Paul and Marlauffe Aufferman, of Seten Circle, decided to send their son, Paul, to St. John's instead of Andover High. He will be a junior.

Paul did attend Pike School, a private elementary school in Andover, but he then went to Bancroft Elementary and graduated from DMS.

Three years ago "when there was talk of budget cuts and changes we decided the high school might not be the best place for Paul," Mr. Aufferman said.

"The first thing to go is aid to the gifted and talented programs, and we thought he might be better off at St. John's," Mr. Aufferman said.

At St. John's, said Mr. Aufferman, the academic programs are divided into four different tracks, which he believes challenges his son more than the high school would.

"We think St. John's has a better track record of getting kids into (colleges). We also liked the religious education and the moral values that are stressed. You can't get that at a public high school," he said.

Daniel and Janice Barch, of Brady Loop, have one daughter who graduated from Andover High School five years ago and a son who will enter the eighth grade this fall.

"Sandra received a very good education at Andover High. She had dynamic teachers and was in some great programs," said Ms. Barch.

"But that was a long time ago. The numbers are increasing and that school was not built for grades nine, 10, 11 and 12. It was originally a three-year school," she said.

Ms. Barch said crowding and the fact that school administrators are discussing reducing the number of academic levels in some programs, such as math, are causing her to rethink if she wants her son, Dan, to go to Andover High.

"I would like to see him have the same kind of education that this sister had. But (school officials) are going to have to come up with a plan and pass funding to take care of crowding before we make any decision for Dan," she said.

Richard and Susan Payne, of Skopelos Circle, have two sons who graduated from PA and a daughter who will be a sophomore at Pingree in September.

"For each child it was a different decision why we sent them to private school," said Ms. Payne.

"For Rebecca, we thought the class sizes (at Andover High) were getting to big. At Pingree the headmaster knows every student's name. I like that," she said.

For her sons, PA offered "more competition and challenge."

"I'm sure that there are kids who thrive at Andover High School. I have nothing against it, but as a parent you have to make the best decision for your child."

"We have the best prep school in the country one mile from our house. How can you not take advantage of that if your child qualifies?" she asked.

swimming at Phillips Academy and "Breakfast Club" at Ford's Coffee Shop.

Club Hurrah also hired an aerobics instructor from Silverado Athletic Club and a karate teacher from Methuen to instruct the teens.

Some mornings the teens come to Club Hurrah with errands to do for their parents.

"Amy [Griffin] picked up earrings that were being repaired at Nazarian's," Ms. Neel said.

Ms. Griffin, 16, has Down syndrome.

"We are pretty involved in the community," Ms. Neel said. "We go some place every week."

Other group trips included visits to the Robert Frost Farm, Strawberry Bank in Portsmouth, NH., the North Atlantic Seabrook Station Nature and Energy Visitor Center, and The Eagle Tribune.

Future trips include Channel 5 in Boston and a harbor cruise.

At the Robert Frost Farm, the teens wrote poetry - haiku, limericks and namenicks - took out books about Robert Frost and visited his farm.

At the North Atlantic Seabrook Station Nature and Energy Visitor Center, the teens viewed tide pools, films and a simulated operation of how the nuclear power plant is operated. They also went on nature trails in the salt marshes.

Aside from the trips, the group also has a more practical focus on life skills such as cooking, shopping and dealing with money. "There is a different theme every week," Ms. Neel said.

Weekly themes include "personal hygiene" and "water week."

The Gillette Co. donated kits with shaving cream, razors, and other toiletries to the teens for personal hygiene week.

For water week the teens visited the water treatment plant, had "bubble day" and visited Georges Island.

Nicole Kelly, 17, said her favorite activities at Club Hurrah are, "swimming and eating pizza." Ms. Kelly also enjoyed the trip to the water treatment plant and "listening to rock and roll in the van with Chris [Grange]."

vocabulary and a "word of the day" such as "caution" or "high voltage."

"Many do read and some don't, but they are all learning to recognize functional sight vocabulary," Ms. Neel said.

Ms. Neel said the Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Authority bus routes allows the group to participate in more activities and increases the mobility of the group.

"We can go shopping at Market Basket for cooking activities," she said.

The group also works on mathematics skills every week with a computer program, Menu Math. Although there are "many levels of math," Ms. Neel said the teens learn to combine coins, establish how much money to give a cashier and figure out change.

Julie Morris, 20, is a group member and a counselor-in-training. She is artistic and is considered mathematically talented. She helps with snack time, drinks and errands.

Ms. Neel said the group also deals with situations that are age-appropriate, such as stealing and foul language. The teachers' lounge at Doherty Middle School becomes the situation room where the group has informal discussions on how to deal with the issues. The teens come up with some of the solutions themselves.

"We have very few disagreements," Ms. Neel said. She also said that there are typical confrontations that would face any group of teens. "We have boyfriend issues," she said. "Real typical problems."

Club Hurrah has four student aides who work with Ms. Neel: two counselors and two volunteers.

Kristen Galvin, a junior at Green Mountain College, is a counselor. She has worked with the group for five years.

Chris Grange, a sophomore at Michigan State, is also a counselor.

The volunteers are Rachel Bloom, a senior at Phillips Academy, and Amy Winning, a sophomore at Presentation of Mary Academy.

John Hogan, 16, said his favorite activities at Club Hurrah are playing baseball [second base], basketball, and "going swimming every day." He also said with a grin, "I like to bother all the counselors."

Ms. Neel said the summer program is like a reunion for the members. While some of the teens know each other from schools in Andover, North Andover, Methuen, Lawrence and Peabody, the summer is a sure-fire way for them to rekindle friendships.

"They leave here, go home and call each other," Ms. Neel said.

"During the year they are involved with programs that are integrated and self-contained," Ms. Neel said.

During the school year, some of the teens attend school and work for companies such as Vicor Corp., Holy Family Hospital and Finelle Cosmetics.

Local stores interact with special-needs customers

A check of some local stores showed that while none of the stores has specific employee training for interacting with mentally retarded or physically handicapped customers, most do have training programs that focus on customer service.

CVS/Pharmacy in Andover has videos and a work book as part of its new-employee training, which totals eight-to-10 hours before the new hires are put on a register, and the store has a good reputation for its rapport with the mentally and physically challenged community.

"A lot of it happens to be they're just regular customers from the pharmacy," said Steve Withee, store manager.

The store's proximity to two group homes of Fidelity House Inc., both in the downtown area, gives the CVS staff the opportunity to know many of those customers by name. Even the high school kids don't have a problem helping the impaired customers, Mr. Withee said.

Some Fidelity House residents come in every day for a soda. Others come in and routinely hand the clerk $5 for $10 worth of items and the clerk's just have to tell them to give more money until the correct amount is paid, Mr. Withee said.

David McLean, operations manager for the Market Basket chain, which includes the Shawheen Plaza store, said his company also has an employee training program but that it also does not include any booklet or pamphlet for interacting with the mentally or physically impaired.

"You do have sensitivity (training) though," Mr. McLean said. "But you don't need to have an impairment to be treated with sensitivity."

The training includes having less-experienced employees default to a manager when they get into a tough situation.

Mr. McLean said customers have suggested designating a checkout aisle for impaired customers, but that it would be both morally and legally wrong to segregate customers.

Even when the store created a special category in its Halloween coloring contest for what Mr. McLean calls "gifted children," the store received negative feedback for segregating special-needs kids.

Mr. McLean said employee training includes teaching workers to watch for signs that a customer needs assistance and to offer that assistance. Cashier training includes courtesy and friendliness as well as accuracy.

"Training is continuous," he said.

Brian Smith, an Andover resident and director of marketing for Star Market, including the North Reading store, said the recently updated Americans with Disabilities Act heightened the sensitivity of issues regarding service to physically and mentally handicapped customers and that customer service is a big part of Star's employee training. Like Market Basket, Star also encourages employees to call a manager if they "get in over their head" with a customer.

"A lot of times I think common sense needs to prevail," Mr. Smith said.

Glenda McKertich, who with her husband, Walter, own the Earthfood Store on Chestnut Street, said she doesn't offer any specific training to her employees.

"We're just real sensitive, that's all," Ms. McKertich said.

There is one Fidelity House resident who she has trouble understanding, but employees just ask her to write down what she needs and that look-up information," he said.

Mr. Sutton said he is prepared to meet the challenges of managing Memorial Hall Library and its $1.3 million total budget. It is headquarters to the state's Northeast Regional lending program and a member of the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium.

As director of Natick's public library Mr. Sutton managed a $730,000 budget and he led the operations of the Minuteman Network, a consortium of 24 Natick-area libraries. During his tenure in Natick Mr. Sutton directed the automation of the library and staff training, and developed a program with the Natick public schools to increase student use of the library.

He has a master's degree in library science from Simmons College and master's degree in public administration from Framingham State College. He is president-elect of the Eastern Region Library Advisory

"I'd like to discuss with the trustees and as many of the staff as possible and people from the community what they'd like for the library," he said.

Mr. Sutton added that one way to involve the community might be to conduct a library patron survey.

for Memorial Hall Library include working with all aspects of the the library com-

Sensitivity helps foster Julia's emerging independence

Whether it was because the cost of the milk had gone up or that Julia, a moderately retarded young woman trying to live on her own, grabbed the blue carton of 2-percent milk instead of the pink carton of skim doesn't really matter, the $1.05 price tag brought the total to $2.04. The 17-year-old cashier told Julia she needed more money. Julia told the cashier she didn't have any more money.

"I had one for milk and one for bread. I didn't have any problem the other times I used them," Julia said during an interview at her mother's home last week, three days after the incident in the store.

The manager came and also told Julia she needed more money. Julia shook her head "no," she didn't have any more money. She had more food stamps, but nobody asked her for another food stamp. Voices were raised and Julia, very upset, left the store with the milk and bread.

"She came home. She cried," her mother said. "She said, 'They yelled at me and I was embarrassed. Everybody looked at me.'"

Why the big deal over 4 cents? Why didn't someone give her the four cents? Why weren't the cashier and store manager more understanding? Who knows? Should someone take blame for this unfortunate scene? Probably not.

A rule prevents merchants from giving more than 99 cents change in cash. If Julia went in for the milk and bread with a $5 stamp, she would have had to spend at least $4.01, so she didn't need more than 99 cents back. Either that, or the cashier would have had to have had $1 food stamps in the register to give her for change.

Julia (not her real name for the sake of protecting her privacy and independence) is pretty and athletic looking, about 5 feet 4 inches tall with medium length brown hair, big dark eyes and an easy smile. Although she speaks slowly, cautiously really, she has no immediately obvious physical or mental disability that would betray the fact that she can't tell time, count or make change.

"And that's where the problem was with the store," her mother said.

Maybe it was a bit insensitive on the part of the cashier, but she was owed four cents and had no reason not to expect it. Maybe Julia's surprise when her careful plan fell apart was misinterpreted. But maybe a greater awareness will prevent such an incident, which was a setback in Julia's progress toward independence, from occurring again to her or anyone else. And that's all she and her mother are asking for.

"She just wanted a little bit of help and that's all she needed was a little bit of help," her mother said. "I want my daughter to be able to go back to the store and be treated with dignity, and I want anybody to be able to go to the store."

Long time coming

Julia has only been living on her own since December, but her move to her own apartment with a roommate was more than 20 years in the making.

Julia first showed signs of slow development by about age two when she didn't walk or talk on time. Her parents, both with psychology degrees, recognized the problems early and made the decision that they would push for their daughter to live as normal a life as possible. They don't like labels, so they have always just told Julia that she has things she has to work on, just as everyone does.

"It's not that I hide it," Julia's mother said. "But you don't introduce yourself as 'Hi. I'm a broken arm.'"

Julia has strengths - her social skills in particular - and weaknesses, like telling time and counting money. She's also legally blind in one eye. Julia's mother was once told her daughter would never learn to walk or talk, yet now she not only walks, but she dances, rides a bike, roller skates, swims and rides horseback.

"So you can see she learned to walk," her mother said.

Julia's brother, two years her senior, is the one who taught her to ride a two-wheel bicycle and got her to take part in other sports so that she's is very physically active today.

There was little education available for handicapped children when Julia was born and her mother was told that's the way it was and would be.

"I said, 'No it's not,'" her mother said.

Julia was once placed in a "trainable" group for special education and only her mother's tenacity led to her being reassigned to the "educable" group, to which she proved she belonged in.

Julia attended Bancroft School, West Junior High and Andover High School, but when AHS didn't offer what

Local store policies

works out for both parties.

"That's the way we communicate," Ms. McKertich said.

Donna Marrow, manager of Christy's Market on Railroad Street, said mentally retarded or handicapped customers are treated the same as any other customer in her store. If someone has trouble reaching an item because of a disability, employees will go around and help the customer get it, she said.

Charlie Webb, owner of the Andover Spa, at 9 Elm St., echoed Ms. Marrow regarding his customers.

"We treat them all the same," Mr. Webb said.

His is a family run operation and he said it operates on the rule that "the customer is always right."

Food stamps

CVS/Pharmacy in Andover and the Andover Spa don't accept food stamps, but Earthfood, Christy's and Market Basket and Star Market do accept them.

"We train people to deal with food stamps tactfully," Mr. McLean said.

But some of the rules of the food stamp program complicate shopping for people like Julia. [See main story.]

The rules are in place to prevent abuse of the program. Unfortunately, sometimes they also prevent easy use of the program.

Listening to teens

Everyone in Andover, especially teen-agers, knows that the most common complaint among kids here is that there is nothing to do.

When the Townsmen published its teen series in May and June, Andover for Teens, we asked them: How is it living in Andover for a teen-ager? What do you need? Teen-agers said Andover needs a movie house. We also heard some say they would like the weight room at Andover High School to be open more hours and to all of them, not just those participating in sports.

In Andover, when teens speak, some people listen!

James Hurley, athletic director for the public schools, phoned us last week to say that the weight room will be open for the remainder of the summer for AHS students, athletes and Andover residents. It is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, 5-8; and Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 6-9. Mr. Hurley said coaches are volunteering to supervise the weight room because they know people want to use it.

The second case of Andover listening to teens is a set of Friday-night movies, which, unfortunately, have not been well publicized. The Department of Community Services has arranged to rent good, current movies: Cop & 1/2 Aug. 13, Swing Kids Aug. 20, and in September, Dave. For the first few movies, only about 20 people showed up. We think people haven't heard about the movies. They are being shown for $3 a head at Old Town Hall.

If all goes well, said Peg Campbell of the DCS, more movies may be shown during the year at that location. Spread the word.

And teens: Keep talking; the community is listening.

I hate voice mail... I want to hear an un-recorded voice on the other end of the line

By Lisa Boudreau

Total quality management. The customer comes first. Those are the buzzwords for the businessmen and women of the '90s. So why is it that I can't reach a live human on the phone when I call their offices these days? I hate voice mail. But what I hate even more are those completely automated answering systems that many companies have today. I don't want to wait five minutes while I listen to a tinny-sounding recording of someone reading a menu of dialing options at a pace so fast, it puts to shame the rapid-talking actor in those tongue-tying commercials.

On average I call more than a dozen businesses, schools, and government offices each day. I estimate that about half of the calls I've made during the past year have been answered by an automated system.

On the flip side - and this is what partially prompted me to sit down at my computer and vent my frustration - just the other week our newspaper received praise from a caller for the friendly and efficient way his phone call was handled by the woman in our office who answered his call.

He was so impressed he made a point of telling the editor how nice and professional the woman was. In fact, he joked about hiring her away from us. That makes me realize that I'm not the only one who appreciates hearing a live voice on the other end of the receiver.

Sometimes I don't even reach a person to transfer me to a voice-message machine. Many times I call and am immediately patched in to those automated systems.

On a good day, when I've had my morning cup of coffee, I can last a minute or two on the line, waiting and listening.

Many times while my line is tied up listening to the rapid-fire dialing options, the nice woman in our office who was praised for her phone skills is stuck taking a message for me.

At least the person who was trying to reach me heard a friendly voice on the other end of the receiver, even if I didn't!

Train whistles are important

Editor, Townsmen:

Since last fall, town officials have been receiving complaints about trains blowing whistles late night and in early morning. I acknowledge that trains have been blowing their whistles more often in the past years. However, the state Department of Public Utilities made this new regulation for a reason - safety.

It is widely known that people are attracted to train tracks. Children of all ages play around train tracks. Adults walk or jog near the tracks. I believe that the state made the right decision to impose this new regulation because the whistles warn people around the tracks that a train is in the area. It is better for people to hear this warning rather than for someone to get hit by a train.

Most people do not realize how long it takes for a train to come to a complete stop. According to the Boston and Maine Railroad, freight trains in Andover can have between 20 and 70 cars in them. The commuter trains operated by the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority usually have between four and seven cars, plus the engine. It takes different amounts of distance to come to a complete halt because of the number of cars and the weight that each train is carrying.

According to the Federal Railroad Administration, in 1991 they were 5,386 collisions nationwide with trains and vehicles. In 1992, that number dropped to 4,900. In 1991, they were 524 pedestrians who were killed by trains. In 1992, that number increased to 533.

Railroads have established an educational program, called Operation Lifesaver, to inform the public about the dangers of racing across railroad crossings and the dangers of playing on train tracks. Operation Lifesaver makes presentations about these dangers in malls, on radio and television airwaves, in drivers education classes and in schools. If any one is interested in contacting Operation Lifesaver, they should write to 1522 King St., Alexandria, Va. 22314, or call (800) 537-6224.

I do not know any of the 200 people who signed the petition to have the DPU regulation overturned. If people do not like getting disturbed late night or early morning by train whistles, perhaps they should consider moving because I believe that it is more important for people to know that a train is approaching and avoid a potential tragedy rather than let people have an undisturbed night of sleep.

RECYCLING

More participate in curbside recycling

By Virginia Cole

Andover's glass and paper curbside recycling keeps climbing slowly in number of homes participating and of tons of materials being recycled. The week's participation varies because recycling is done only every other week. Our highest number of recycling homes in one week was 80 percent in the middle of April. That is a goal to strive for every week. The figures from Waste Management, recycling contractor, were 4,100 homes with 3,294 putting out blue bins; 69.59 tons of paper were collected and 17.09 tons of glass. We all know there is a lot more glass out there that should be going into the blue bin. Try it. It's easy. You don't even have to remove labels, just tops.

These figures break down into 42.25 pounds of recycling per home; 31.38 pounds of paper and 10.87 pounds of glass. Glass tonnage has been running under last year's for the last four months. This is not the way to go. All glass that is not returnable for deposit payments goes right in that blue bin. Some people tell me they don't have glass to recycle. I shop to buy glass rather than paper-plastic containers that increase the waste stream. There are lots of fruit juices in glass. Glass is easier for Andoverites to recycle than cans. You can get rid of it every other week right at the curb. There are glass containers for vinegar, mayonnaise, salad dressings, ketchup and some cooking oils. Fruits and vegetables come in glass. Shop for glass and recycle.

My recycling daughter from New Jersey has been visiting. Hearing about what goes on in New Jersey is like seeing into a crystal ball - it will be here soon. In the area where she lives, only one bag of trash per week is now allowed. She has to pay for trash pickup and one bag is all that can be put out each week for the basic price. They can recycle paper, magazines, glass, plastic (not all kinds) and cardboard; lawn and grass clippings can be composted. Her trash company has told her that within a year they will charge for trash pickup by weight. They are in the process of getting the pick-up trucks fitted with scales. They have to pay by weight to get rid of trash, so the same will be true for all of us eventually. She does not find the one-bag rule a problem for her family - two adults and two kids. They are thoroughly into recycling. I don't think that is because of me. It is living in New Jersey where "everyone" does it. New Jersey has found it economical for the state and different ways and means to recycle are continually being used.

The system in Andover has been consistent and is now easier than ever. Glass and paper (including magazines, catalogs, etc.) go into the blue bin every other week. If you haven't tried it, look at your neighbors. It's not hard. Cans and plastic (No. 1 and 2) go to the West Middle School parking lot on Shawshen Road from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. every third Saturday of the month.

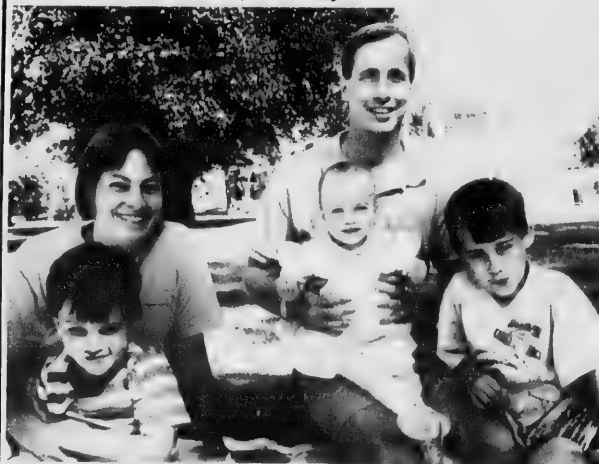

I'm writing this from Maine, where it is even easier to recycle than in Andover. And here the TV has a recycling spot often. It says, "Recycle, it is the right thing to do."

STRUCTURAL INSPECTIONS

If you have a house for sale, your buyers will probably include a contingency in the contract asking for some time to get a structural inspection. They will hire an expert to look at the way the house is built and to check out the major systems and any appliances that convey.

A professional structural inspector will help your buyers get to know your house and feel comfortable with it. It is not an inspection that results in a pass or fail grade. The buyers will learn important things about the house. How do they find the water cutoff valve in an emergency? Are there any cost-effective energy conservation investments they might want to make after settlement? How should they set up a budget for repairs over the next ten years? Buyers rarely back out of a sale after a structural. Even if there are problems, you have an opportunity to negotiate a compromise early in the transaction, helping to avoid problems that could threaten the sale if discovered later on.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate specialists at Century 21 Carriage House are ready to serve you. Feel free to visit our office at 10 High Street, or phone us, at 475-1243.

David Horner is artist of month

David Horner is the artist of the month at Memorial Hall Library. The Peabody resident has been photographing nature for nearly a decade. He always wanted to be an artist and discovered the camera could be his brush. He early realized that the camera "brush" is only a tool in the hands of the artist. The camera merely holds the film; the photographer translates and recreates the statement of the natural world we live in.

When photographing nature, Mr. Horner is impressed with the wonderful world we are given to enjoy and share with others. Henry David Thoreau once said, "In the wilderness is the preservation of the world."

Mr. Horner has displayed at the Peabody, Lynn and Reading libraries, Hunt Hospital, M.I.T., Lincoln Laboratory, Angles and Art, Haverhill, and Andover's Art in the Park and has given all-day workshops at Hourglass Photo in Wakefield.

Wild ride to final eight too exhausting for Post 8?

By Rick Harrison

The wild ride to the State Legion Tournament Elite Eight may have been too exhausting for Andover Post 8.

After struggling to a five-game 2-1-2 victory over Arlington Post 39 in what was supposed to be a best-of-three series, and sweeping Reading Post 62 in an explosive 50-run, 59-hit followup, Andover was bounced from the state finals in two straight games for the second consecutive year.

The locals were thrust into the loser's bracket with a 7-2 first round loss to Northampton, and then ousted from the double-elimination tourney with a raucous 13-12 setback to Maine South Post of Worcester at Fino Field in Milford.

Last summer Post 8 qualified for its first State Tournament and dropped a pair of close decisions to Braintree and New Bedford.

Both the Northampton and Worcester games were within Andover's grasp, but tired pitching arms couldn't contain the opposition at key times.

The defense also let Andover down as nine of the 20 runs allowed were unearned.

Post 8 and Northampton were scoreless through five innings, and Andover trailed just 1-0 into the seventh before the winners broke it open with a five-run rally.

The Northampton Legion was well-stocked with players from the town's high school team, which captured the Central-Western Mass. Division 1 title before dropping a one-run decision to New Bedford in the State final (won by Andover High the previous two years).

Against Worcester South, Post 8 fought back from an early 8-2 deficit to grab a 9-8 lead after six innings and a 12-10 advantage entering the ninth.

Andover came within one out of winning before an error and RBI double put Worcester ahead to stay, 13-12. The locals left the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth.

Central Mass. had been a scene of triumph in the past for many of the same Andover players, who won the 1992 State Division 1 high school championship at Fino Field by routing Holy Name of Worcester, 15-0, and the 1991 State title at Holy Cross in Worcester with a 3-2 victory over Milford.

Manager Joe Iarrobino's Post 8 team finished the season with a 15-7-3 overall record.

Gymnasts bring back medals from Y championships

Fourteen young athletes from the Andover/North Andover YMCA traveled to Tampa, Fla., in July for the 1993 YMCA National Championships and brought back several medals.

In the 10-and-under age division Jacqueline Barry placed 10th all around. Her routines earned her fourth place on beam and fifth on floor. Ashley McLaughlin and Meghan O'Connell tied for 11th place in the all around. Ashley, 7, the youngest team member, placed third on 11th on bars. Meghan earned sixth place on vault. Kaitlin Doyle placed seventh on uneven bars.

Hope Scandore placed eighth all around in the 11 and over age division with medals on vault and beam. Her solid beam performance earned her second place and she placed seventh on vault. Rebecca Burbank placed 10th in the all around. Her uneven bar routine placed fourth and she also placed 10th on floor. Rachel Cohen placed fifth on balance.

Swimming siblings are summer standouts

By Rick Harrison

Andover sibling swim standouts Diana and Matt Liberty are winding down their 1993 summer competitive seasons, and as usual they are doing so in impressive fashion.

Diana, who begins her sophomore year at Andover High in about three weeks, competed in last month's Bay State Games.

She entered three events and won all three at the Harvard University pool in Cambridge.

Miss Liberty set new BSG records in the 200 and 800 meter freestyle races, and brought home her third gold medal in the 400 meter individual medley.

Diana also competed with the nation's best earlier this month in Orlando, Fla., holding her own in the 400, 800 and 1,500 meter freestyle events at the Junior National Championships.

Miss Liberty, the reigning Massachusetts State high school champion in the 500 yard freestyle, is obviously primed for another outstanding fall season in the Merrimack Valley Conference for Coach Marilyn Fitzgerald's Lady Warriors.

Matt, who leaves for his freshman year at college shortly, recently became a New England champion in the 200 meter butterfly at the annual New England Senior Championships held at Harvard.

Last year's Andover High valedictorian also placed third in the 400 meter individual medley, seventh in the 1,500 meter freestyle, eighth in the 800 meter freestyle, and between 10th and 17th in five other events.

It was enough to earn the busy natator seventh place overall in New England.

Because he was in the midst of college preparations, Matt decided not to compete in the Junior Nationals.

He completed a superb four-year swim career at Andover High last winter with a pair of strong second place finishes in the All-State Meet.

Diana and Matt are the daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Girard Liberty, 18 Inwood Lane.

Andover Blue faces Methuen Police in playoff series

By Rick Harrison

It's instant replay time in the Suburban Pony League this week, as Andover Blue and the Methuen Police are meeting for the second straight year in the best-of-three championship playoff series.

Unfortunately for Blue, Methuen took the first step towards defending its title with a hard-fought 6-5 victory in game one on Monday night in Methuen.

North Division runner-up Blue advanced to this week's finals with a 6-3 quarterfinal round knockout victory over Lowell, and a come-from-behind triumph over South Division champ Medford in their best-of-3 semifinal series.

It took two nights to play the first game against Medford. Blue was leading 3-1 after four innings when a thunderstorm washed everything off the books. League rules require the game be replayed in its entirety, and when the teams reconvened 24 hours later Medford edged Blue 4-2.

The Andover club came back to sweep the next two games by convincing 11-1 and 6-2 scores, however, to earn its berth opposite defending SPL champ Methuen.

The second win over Medford was Blue's 20th of the season.

Methuen, the regular season North Division champ by one point over Blue, received a first-round bye and then swept the Reading Rockets aside 6-0 and 8-2 in their semifinal series.

Methuen's triumph over Blue on Monday was its 20th of the summer as well. Last year Blue and Methuen locked horns in a titanic title showdown, splitting the first two games with Blue winning the opener, 3-1, and Methuen the second game, 12-3.

The Police then nudged Andover 1-0 in the deciding contest despite a brilliant pitching performance by Blue's Alex Marshall, who struck out 10.

This summer Methuen defeated Blue in both regular-season games, 10-7 and 10-2.

"We're extremely happy with the way the season has gone," said Blue Coach Steve Tisbert prior to the Methuen series. "Everyone thought we'd be down this year, but you don't win 20 games without playing well."

Game two in the championship series was last night at Andover High, and if Blue won to force a final game it will be tomorrow night at Pelham Street in Methuen (5:30 p.m.).

Medford 4

Andover Blue 2

Underdog Medford scored two runs in the bottom of the second, then added single tallies in the fifth and sixth innings.

Blue pitchers George Secchiaroli (3-3), who worked the first three innings and took the loss, Chris Kearn and Ryan Games combined for a four-hitter and six strikeouts.

But Andover managed just three hits itself, none of which figured in the scoring.

Blue's first run came in the fourth when Brian Tisbert, who leads the team in stolen bases with 36, walked and then stole second, stole third and crossed on Secchiaroli's infield out.

In the sixth Tisbert again walked, stole second, stole third and continued home on the catcher's overthrow.

Blue's only other serious threat came in the third stanza as Joe Sciola doubled, but was stranded at third base after a strikeout and flyout.

The other hits were harmless singles by Tisbert, who finished the game with five stolen bases, and Chris Kearn.

In the 3-1 washout, pitcher George Secchiaroli was working on a three-hitter with four strikeouts when the rains came.

Brian Tisbert had stroked a pair of singles, while Chris Kearn added a run-scoring single and Secchiaroli had an RBI.

Andover Blue 11

Medford 1

Starting pitcher Brian Tisbert (4-0) and reliever Ryan Games combined for a two-hitter and six strikeouts, as Blue squared the series with this lopsided romp at Andover High.

Righthander Tisbert went the first five innings, surrendering both Medford hits and the lone run while walking four and fanning five.

Righthander Games mopped up with two hitless, shutout innings.

Medford did not show much offensive punch, stroking only four balls out of the infield.

Tisbert escaped a jam in the top of the first, when he walked the leadoff and cleanup hitters. An infield error loaded the bases, but the Medford runner at third made too wide a turn and was tagged out in a rundown to end the inning.

Blue jumped all over Medford in the bottom of the first, sending nine batters to the plate and scoring six runs.

Hugh Quattlebaum started the rally with a single to center field, Rob Oppenheim bunted him to second, Tis-in a classic pitcher's duel through five innings.

The game was a scoreless tie until the sixth, when leg cramps and 119 pitches began to take their toll on Hesenius.

The Andover righthander was forced to leave after 5.1 innings, during which he scattered seven Northampton hits while striking out eight and walking four.

Matt Wolcott finished the sixth and started the seventh, but was lifted after yielding three hits and three runs as Northampton broke it open in a five-run seventh.

Gus Quattlebaum worked the final three innings, surrendering four hits and three runs.

Only four Northampton runs were earned.

Reil silenced the sizzling Andover bats, which had produced 33 hits and 30 runs in last week's wild two-game sweep of Reading Post 62.

Reil allowed just six hits in a route-going nine-inning performance. He whiffed four, walked only two and hit three batters.

Post 8 had threats in the third, fifth and seventh innings, but couldn't produce the key hit until the eighth when the locals pushed across their only two runs. Andover left eight men aboard in the game.

With two outs in the bottom of the third Paul Allard, back in the lineup after suffering a pulled hamstring against Reading, laced a single. Mike Sullivan followed with a bunt single and a fielder's choice ended the inning.

With the teams still locked in a 0-0 tie Todd Harris opened the fifth with a single. Brian Flanagan bunted him to second and Jeff Lembo was hit by a pitch. However, Reil escaped this jam on consecutive flyball outs to center field.

Northampton pushed across its first run in the sixth, and the five-run seventh featured five hits including an RBI triple by Mario Procette, a two-run double by Tom Mitchalaviske and a run-scoring single from Josh Miller.

In the Andover seventh Rick Mendez singled and Flanagan was hit by a pitch, but this bid fizzled after a strikeout and flyout to center.

Post 8 finally broke through in the eighth.

Matt Wolcott drew a one-out walk, Reil's first free pass of the game, Gus Quattlebaum singled and Mendez also walked to load the bases.

Todd Harris ripped a two-out, two-run single, but a potential big inning was short-circuited with a runner cut down at third base.

Steve Karzo paced the 14-hit Northampton attack with four safeties while leadoff batter Adam Hinds, Miller and Mitchalaviske contributed two each.

The victory was Northampton Legion's 25th of the season, as it improved to 25-5 including preliminary best-of-three series wins over West Boylston and Amherst.

Worcester South 13

Andover 12

In a wild game that brought back memories of the Reading series, Post 8 came within one out of an improbable victory.

Worcester used four pitchers and Andover three. There were 25 runs and 26 hits, 13 by each team, as well as numerous errors, walks and hit batsmen.

Matt Marvin started for Post 8, working 5.1 innings and allowing eight hits, eight runs (six earned) while fanning three, walking six and hitting one batter.

Todd Murray worked the next three innings, into the ninth, yielding five hits and four runs (only one earned).

Gus Quattlebaum finished up and took the loss, although with sharper defensive support he would have saved the win for Murray.

Andover spotted Worcester a 2-0 lead midway through the second inning, but came back to tie it when Justin Hesenius walked, Brian Flanagan reached on an error, Todd Harris beat out a bunt single to load the bases, and Matt Marvin helped himself with a sharp two-out, two-run single to center.

Worcester pulled ahead 8-2 with four runs in the third and two more in the fourth.

Post 8 began its first comeback with single runs in the fourth and fifth frames.

In the fourth Mike Sullivan slapped a two-out single, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Matt Wolcott's single. In the fifth Hesenius and Harris singled before Toby Guzowski's one-out grounder rescued the run.

Andover grabbed its first lead of the tournament by scoring five runs in the sixth. Todd Murray singled, Sullivan rapped an RBI double, Wolcott and Quattlebaum walked to load the bases, Hesenius lofted a sacrifice fly, Flanagan walked, and Todd Harris cleared the bases with a three-run double to make it 9-8.

Worcester pushed across two runs in the top of the eighth to regain the lead, 10-9, but Post 8 retaliated with three in the home half.

Hesenius drew a one-out walk, stole second and third, and then Harris walked and stole second. Guzowski lashed a two-run single and Bob Daley later singled to score what appeared to be an insurance run.

An Andover error to open the ninth gave Worcester new life, and Shamus Braio's fourth single of the game closed the gap to 12-11. With two outs Post 8 committed another error, allowing Braio to race home with the tying run, and then Rich Johnson ripped an RBI double to cap the last-ditch rally.

In the bottom of the ninth Andover threatened without benefit of a base hit.

Both Matt Wolcott and Gus Quattlebaum were hit by pitches, and Brian Flanagan drew a two-out walk to load the bases. However, with the tying run 90 feet away and the gamewinner at second base, a strikeout ended the Post 8 season.

Todd Harris and Mike Sullivan led the locals' offense with three hits apiece, while Justin Hesenius added two and Rick Mendez one. Hesenius scored three runs, Sullivan two and Brian Flanagan two.

Worcester's Shamus Braio went 4-for-6 and scored four runs while John Cannole, Rob Cone and Rich Johnson added two hits apiece.

bert beat out a perfectly-placed bunt single, and George Secchiaroli walked to load the bases.

An attempted squeeze by Ted Witman went awry when Quattlebaum was nailed at the plate, but Chris Kearn followed with a two-out, two-run single to center.

Peter Kaltsunas walked on a 3-2 pitch to keep the inning alive, Andy Marshall lashed another two-run single to center, and when Ryan Games' grounder was misplayed Kaltsunas and Marshall scored the fifth and sixth runs.

Blue made it 7-0 in the second stanza as Quattlebaum drew a one-out walk, stole second, took third on a passed ball and crossed on Brian Tisbert's infield single.

Tisbert breezed through the second and third innings on the mound, facing just six batters and getting solid infield play from second baseman Rob Oppenheim, shortstop Hugh Quattlebaum and third baseman Chris Kearn.

Blue upped the score to 8-0 in the third when Secchiaroli walked, Witman singled to center and Kaltsunas rescued the run with an infield grounder.

Medford spoiled Tisbert's no-hit and shutout bids in the fourth with a double and single back-to-back.

The locals notched their final three runs in the bottom of the fourth. Ryan Games walked and eventually scored on Quattlebaum's one-out single. Tisbert drew a two-out walk and Secchiaroli dumped an opposite-field two-run single into right for an 11-1 lead.

Blue went quietly in the fifth and sixth, but continued to play solid defense with a 4-6-3 double play in the sixth (Oppenheim to Quattlebaum to Secchiaroli).

An error and walk put two Medford runners aboard with one out in the seventh, but Games finished strongly on a fielder's choice and game-ending K.

Hugh Quattlebaum and Brian Tisbert led the eight-single Blue attack with two hits each. Quattlebaum, 2-for-3 and robbed of a third hit, Tisbert (2-for-2) and George Secchiaroli (1-for-1) were on base three times each and scored two runs apiece.

Oppenheim finished with three putouts and three assists at second, while Quattlebaum had two putouts and three assists at short.

Andover Blue 6 Medford 2

Blue jumped to a commanding 6-0 lead after three innings, and rode the combined three-hit pitching of winner Hugh Quattlebaum (4-0) and Chris Kearn to the deciding victory at Playstead Park in Medford.

Quattlebaum yielded all three hits and fanned three in six innings, while Kearn retired Medford 1-2-3 with one strikeout in the seventh.

Andover moved ahead 2-0 in the top of the first when Rob Oppenheim walked, stole second and scored as George Secchiaroli reached on an error. Secchiaroli then stole second with a head-first slide and galloped home on Ted Witman's single.

Chris Kearn led off the second inning with his first home run of the season, an estimated 330-foot fly ball that dropped over the fence in straightaway left field.

Andy Marshall ripped a one-out double and hustled home from second base when Ryan Games pushed a bunt single past the pitcher. Games took second on the play, stole third and scored as Hugh Quattlebaum's grounder was misplayed.

Blue added its final run in the third when Brian Tisbert walked, stole second, stole third, and beat the throw home on Secchiaroli's fielder's choice grounder to second base.

Sarah Muller, Courtney Familietti, Caroline Torrisi, Viki Pierce, Shannon Breen, Lacy Eggert, Kaitlin Dargan and Noelle Blank hit singles. Beth Har, on base with a walk, had aggressive base-running. Dargan and Eggert had double steals in the third inning as did Blank and Kim McKew in the sixth. Familietti's heads-up play at second base tagged a runner out. Eggert caught a key pop-up in the third inning. Laura Orlando at first made a key play to catcher Julie Viola at home for the out. Rightfielder Har held back runners.

Lexington 21 - Andover Blue 6

Michelle Carpentier, Laura Orlando, Caroline Torrisi and Jenny Powers handled hard-hit balls for the outs. Catcher Julie Viola had two key put-outs at home for the third out in the second and third innings. Shortstop Viki Pierce tagged the runner stealing third to close the fourth inning. Charlotte Muller controlled first base with five outs in the last three innings with throws from Sarah Muller, Pierce, Powers and Kaitlyn Dargan. McKew, Dargan, Carpentier and Muller hit singles.

Braves 25 - Pink Panthers 24

Blue Dolphins 13 - Green Gators 8

Both teams had four shut-out innings. The Blue Dolphins' offense came from Danielle Castignetti's home run, triples from Jenny Ambro, Cara Chiaraluce and doubles from Rachel Hartman, Becky Maddox and Kristen Herlihy. Catcher Amy Herlihy made a key catch of a foul tip. Castignetti caught a long fly ball to end the fifth inning and Morgan Jacobson made a good play at third to end the sixth inning.

Stephanie Varly led the Green Gators in batting. Leah Spires, Susie Moffitt and Taylor Traub played excellent defense and Kristen Sweeney, Jessica Olans and Stephanie Fish helped.

Blue M&M 14 - Green Gators 13

Christine Smaglia made a key play at second base for the Blue M&M. Christine Baraby and Lindsey Pearson made outstanding plays to Amanda Camelio at first for the outs. Anna Vining played solid second base. Julie Barenholtz and Camelio caught pop-ups in the fourth inning. Pearson had a three RBI home run and Julie Barenholtz, Sarah Rabbani and Rachel Robinson also contributed to the win.

Maura McConville was excellent at the plate for the Green Gators. Hillary Schofield's outstanding catch stopped the Blue M&M scoring. Jill Oppenheim and Melissa Brinkley played solid defense while Katie Gurry, Robin Young and Jammie Kaplan played well.

Cheesers 24 - Pink Panthers 11

Cheesers rallied with a triple by

Abby Denehy and a double from Caitlin Doran. Defense was the key to the win with heads-up catching by Brittany Traynor and a key play to Brittany Buckner. Jessica Britles made two great throws to first baseman Christine Sherry in the third inning for the outs while Rachel Albert's catch closed the inning. Susan Wood, Siobhan Landry and Jackie Morando also contributed to the win.

Courtney Bartlett led the Pink Panthers' offense. Melisa Collier and Jennifer Bronson made unassisted double plays and Joy Ciruso, Kim Adleman and Elizabeth made big plays.

Red 21 - Yellow 10

Sarah O'Brien's five hits, Daniell St. Jean's four hits, including a home run, and three hits each by Merinda Pattalo, Amy Davidson and Tara Cataldo contributed to the come-back win for the Red team. St. Jean pitched three shut-out innings. Pattalo caught a popup and threw to shortstop Casey Timmons for a double play. Laura Pellentier and Kaitlyn Nugent also contributed to the win.

Andover begins quest for trophy Hoops for Hope trophy named for deceased police officer

The Andover team in the Varsity Division of the fledgling Hoops for Hope Summer Basketball League will begin its quest for the playoff championship on Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Sullivan Park courts adjacent to Veterans Stadium in Lawrence.

Andover will face the winner of tonight's opening round game between Salem and Lawrence.

If the locals win Saturday's quarterfinal round contest in the single-elimination playoffs, they will move to the semifinals on Sunday at 5 p.m.

The league championship final is also scheduled for Sunday night at 8:45 p.m.

The Andover team has been led this summer by Eric Danis, Kirk Stockwood, Matt Gibson and Tom Tanin.

If it rains either Saturday or Sunday the playoffs will move a short distance up the road to the Kane School gymnasium.

Playoff participants will be competing for the Jacob Eyssi Memorial Championship Trophy.

In September 1986, Lawrence patrolman Eyssi was severely beaten in the line of duty at the Stadium Court Housing Project. The father of five daughters suffered permanent brain damage, ultimately passing away last May at the time Hoops for Hope Inc. was refurbishing the Sullivan Park area.

Hoops for Hope is a non-profit organization, founded by Andover native Jim Arnold, whose primary objective is to renovate dilapidated basketball courts and playgrounds. Sullivan Park is the first HFH project.

Hoops officials will now focus their energy upon upgrading the playground alongside the Sullivan Park basketball courts. The equipment and grounds need work.

More improvements are also planned for the courts in the coming year, including new fencing, resurfacing and seating for spectators.

The popular courts have been in use virtually 24 hours a day this summer, with young people who live in the Stadium Projects taking full advantage of the desperately-needed facility.

Julia

her mother considered quality programs for Julia, Julia went to LABB, the Lexington, Arlington, Burlington and Bedford public school collaborative in Lexington, for her education. After school, when Julia was placed in a job well below her capability in a state job program, it took her mother's phone calls to the director of the state's Health and Human Services to get Julia reassigned to a job she now loves.

Julia works 25 hours a week in quality control at Finelle Cosmetics in Lawrence. She was hired through the Visions program at the Greater Lawrence Education Collaborative, a program her mother raves about.

"She goes to work every day and she gets a paycheck. It's not a sheltered workshop. They make products that they sell and Julia made," her mother said.

Now Julia's mother is trying to get the Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Authority to make some route changes so Julia doesn't have to spend two hours on the bus every morning to get to a job that is only 15 minutes away.

The apartment

Julia had been living at home and working part time jobs since she finished her collaborative education program in Lexington when she was 22. She wanted to live on her own but it took a while to find a roommate. She didn't want to live in a group home, which costs the state $48,000 a year, but the state offered no help in finding her an apartment or roommate. She finally found a roommate through a social club affiliated with the collaborative program she attended.

Though institutionalization for one person costs the state $160,000 a year, Julia gets very little aid in living on her own.

She gets $347 a month from social security, $55 a month in food stamps and $300 a month from her part-time job. Her parents are not allowed to contribute to her living expenses and can't give her anything of value or it has to be deducted from her social security benefits. If she works a few extra hours and makes a few more dollars, that amount is deducted from her social security check.

Her mother says going it on her own is not the easy way out for any of them.

"It's a hard way out. You don't get a whole lot. It's either all or nothing. That's the way it seems to be."

Julia's parents found her and her roommate an apartment in downtown Andover for $700 a month. Her mom does Julia's shopping with her and packages and labels her meals so that Julia can cook them on her own. Although she can't tell time, Julia can read numbers, so her mother writes 2:00 on the package to tell her she should eat it at 2 o'clock, and includes instructions as to how long to cook food in the microwave.

Although Julia and her roommate have some disagreements, the apartment sharing is working. And Julia is also getting to know many of her neighbors.

When she first moved in, her mother gave Julia some Christmas cookies. When she asked Julia how she liked them, Julia said she had gone around knocking on doors in her apartment building and introducing herself to her neighbors and offering them a cookie. Another time her mother went to the apartment to visit, she found Julia helping a new resident move in and babysitting for his child.

One day last week she went to the mall with a neighbor and had lunch.

"Yesterday I went to the movies," Julia said.

She had lunch scheduled for Friday with a neighbor, something else was planned for Saturday morning, and Saturday night she was going out with social club. Sunday she was going to squeeze in a visit with her parents.

She goes to the library to read books and her mother said Julia always reads the Townsmen, and gets mad if it gets thrown away before she's had a chance to go through it. She reads the captions, looks at the pictures and gets enough of out of it to know what's going on, her mother said.

Julia said she wanted to be on her own to get away from her parents, then begged her mother to take no offense. But she wanted her independence.

"I like it."

Last Monday was the first time Julia went shopping on her own and it was a blow to her self-confidence. She said she won't do it again.

"No. I want to do it with my mom," she said.

But she has proven in the past to be very resilient and she will surely give it another go. The important thing now is to make sure such an incident doesn't happen again, both Julia and her mother said.

Julia's mother said a medical doctor once referred to her daughter as "not playing with a full deck," and an eye doctor asked why she was bothering straightening out Julia's eye when she was "retarded anyway and no one would notice." So sensitivity, or a lack of it, is not necessarily linked to age or intelligence, her mother said. People just need to live by the golden rule.

"All it is is to be kind to people," Julia's mother said.

Leo Gravell of the Andover Hockey Shop.

For more than 25 years, the Andover Hockey Shop has been meeting the sporting goods needs of the Merrimack Valley. Sandy Gravell and his family thank the community for its support and for allowing them to be a part of your child's sports experience. The pleasure that Sandy has derived from watching children reach their sports potential is a large part of what has made these years so rewarding for him. Andover Hockey Shop has the largest selection of sporting goods around and their courteous service and reasonable prices have earned them a wide-ranging and loyal clientele.

The shop has recently been remodeled making it brighter and making the merchandise more easily accessible. As a result of the renovation, Andover Hockey Shop is having a Remodeling Sidewalk Sale. Plan now to come by on Saturday, Aug. 28, for some great buys on jackets, skates, sports shoes and other equipment.

The fall sports season is underway at Andover Hockey Shop with special sports packages available. A soccer package, for all ages, which consists of Diadora shoes, shin pads and a ball is available for $29.95. Buy a pair and get outside to enjoy the last days of summer and all of the cool air of fall. Youth in-line skates by Bauer are available for $74.95. With the onset on cold weather, the Andover Hockey Shop is also the place for ice skates, both hockey and figure skating.

As always, Andover Hockey Shop offers the widest selection of team and school jacket styles and colors. All of the local schools are represented, and embroidery is included in the cost of the jacket. The Andover Hockey Shop's uniform and team jacket services include many local schools as customers.

Andover Blue faces Methuen Police in playoff series

into a pitcher's duel with Medford finally breaking up the shutout by notching two runs in the sixth.

Marshall and Kearn paced the Andover offense with two hits apiece, while Peter Katsunas added a single.

Defensive standouts were Jack Glazebrook in right field, and the key-stone combo of shortstop Brian Tisbert and second baseman Rob Oppenheim.

Methuen 6 Andover Blue 5
The Police improved to 20-1-1 overall, while Blue fell to 20-4, as Methuen High hurler Mark Ruggiero posted the victory with last-out relief help from Jason Royalston.

Royalston replaced Ruggiero in the top of the seventh with two outs and two Blue runners aboard, retiring the batter he faced to end the game.

Chris Cultrera rapped three hits for Methuen, and Dan DiBella made the defensive play of the game when he turned a running catch into a key double play.

riding.

"Steve has been just wonderful," said Ms. Alecci Hartel, who began training for the 192-mile ride in April. He accompanied her on her first ride, but since then she either

Road, completed his second ride for the organization this weekend, which was the sixth anniversary of his father's death from cancer.

"He spent time with the Dana-Farber Cancer center. I have about $1,300 in pledges and I hope to be what they call a heavy hitter - that's someone who raises $1,800," he said.

Mr. Sullivan said he enjoyed the ride this year as much, if not more, than the previous year.

"The weather was on our side and the volunteers that are a part of it are so devoted. You can't thank them enough," he said.

His training routine began last year when he prepared for the 1992 bike-a-thon. He still gets up early in the morning and rides 30 or 40 miles before he goes to work.

Mark Hagan, of Sevilla Road, incorporated his training routine into his daily commuting routine.

"I didn't start riding a bike seriously until last year," to train for the 1992 ride, he said.

"Since then I've been riding 15 miles from Andover to Bedford where my company is and then home again. Somehow cancer has touched everyone's life that I know. The riders shared a camaraderie that was something special," Mr. Hagan said.

He has collected about $2,000 this year in pledges. Organizers of the event hope to raise more than $10 million from the 1993 ride. They expect pledges and donations to continue to flow in through November.

Steve "hasn't complained even once about the time it takes to train," said Ms. Alecci Hartel. "There are days he even asks me if I've gone out riding. If I say no, he looks at me and says, 'I really think you should go.' So everyone has been a lot of help," she said, including her employer, Hewlett Packard. The company donated $500 to Ms. Alecci Hartel's and her partner's fund-raising campaign. She and Mr. Lightfoot, whom she says is a more accomplished rider, made a deal earlier this year when Ms. Alecci Hartel announced she wanted to participate in the ride - she would do all the fund-raising and he would help her train and ride along side.

So far the duo has raised close to $4,000. The figure could become larger, because the Jimmy Fund is accepting donations through the fall. People still can contact riders and pledge money, she said.

trained on her own or rode with Mr. Lightfoot. The cyclists' regimen consisted of three rides together each week and perhaps one or two on their own, she said.

"My first ride was with Steve and it was about seven miles. We didn't think it was that bad, but the next day it hurt to sit down. Then Paul and I began increasing the distances from 30 (miles) to 40 to 50. The other day I rode 70," she said.

Mr. Hartel said he is pleased to see his wife become so active in cancer research fund raising.

"At first you crave normalcy as a family," he said.

"You say to yourself, 'When are things going to get back to the way they were before?' But you quickly realize that they are never going to be the way they were before, even if Jill never gets sick again. Something like this changes you forever."

"It's a hard pill to swallow at first, but that doesn't have to be bad. We realized we could be proactive and shape the way things were going to be. We are proactively carving out what normal is," said Mr. Hartel.

Tri-State Kitchens is truly a full-service company

Tri-State Kitchens, located in Nashua, N.H., was established in 1990 by Bill Greenwood, George O'Rourke and Michael Thibault.

Bill has 30 years experience in manufacturing, design and sales. George has more than 25 years in design and sales and Mike has more than 15 years in installation and customer service.

So you can see with a combined experience of more than 60 years in all aspects of kitchen cabinetry, Tri-State Kitchens is truly a full-service company that can handle all your needs.

The staff at Tri-State would like to let you know that they don't wear red or orange jackets, or have 1,001 other items to sell. They are "just plain folks" who know your needs and will work with you on a one-on-one basis.

Tri-State Kitchens feature exclusively a frameless line of cabinets by "Canac." Frameless cabinetry offers a number of advantages over traditional frame cabinets and are becoming increasingly more popular in the United States.

Because hinges are concealed and there are no signs of cabinet box framing around doors and drawers, frameless cabinets are more visually appealing, especially when made of woods such as oak, cherry, maple and pine that are available in so many styles and colors. Frameless cabinets have more interior space and that space is more easily accessible.

See Tri-State Kitchens' full-page ad on page 12A, introducing themselves to Andover, and you'll see their easy-to-follow directions, which lead you right to their front door.

Turn an ordinary kitchen into extraordinary showcase – without an extraordinary budget

Does your kitchen lack personality? When you see the beautiful, remodeled kitchens often featured in home improvement and decorating magazines, do you want to avoid spending time in yours? If you think such "showcase kitchens are beyond most people's means, think again.

Readily available, ready-to-install carpentry and accessories can take your kitchen from drab to dramatic in no time at all and without spending a bundle.

"Creating a 'custom' kitchen designed to satisfy your personal lifestyle and taste does not necessarily mean you have to buy expensive custom cabinetry," says Paul Radoy, manager design services for Merillat Industries Inc., the nation's leading manufacturer of cabinets for the kitchen, bath and home. "Ready-to-install cabinets in varying heights, decorative cabinetry accessories such as dishwasher panels and crown molding, imaginative countertops and lighting can combine to produce a distinctive kitchen that is uniquely yours."

Ready-to-install cabinet manufacturers, such as Merillat Industries, are offering today's consumers more style and accessory options than ever before, making it easier than ever to "customize" even the most basic kitchen design.

"Kitchen cabinets are the focal point of any kitchen. Choices of door styles and finishes set the tone for the entire kitchen," says Mr. Radoy.

Consider the L-shaped kitchen, one of the most common designs in homes today. Popular because it allows for plentiful counter and storage space, the unbroken lines of the continuous work area and rows of cabinets associated with the L-shaped design can result in a predictable and monotonous look.

According to Mr. Radoy, an easy way to add visual excitement in kitchens that feature rows of cabinets is to stagger wall-cabinet heights. An appealing configuration can be created by "stepping" 30-inch-high and 36-inch-high double-door wall cabinets up to a 42-inch-high corner cabinet. Not only do the varied heights break up the solid wall of cabinets, but the open areas above the "stepped" cabinets provide ideal spaces for displaying decorative containers, plants or other accent pieces.

Staggering base-cabinet heights also

Designing Kitchens:

Distinctive remodeling for a distinctive community

Designing Kitchens will complete its first year in downtown Andover this October. Ray and Susan Badman, owners and operators, already feel an integral part of the community. Andover has been good to the young couple; they have endured the first months of starting a new business, and business has been great, they say. Designing Kitchens is now a strong and vibrant business in Olde Andover Village.

The new custom cabinetry showroom is conveniently located at Olde Andover Village, 93 Main St.

Many customers casually stroll along Andover's characteristic Main Street, window shopping. As they stop to gaze into the sparkling window of Designing Kitchens, they are beckoned to enter.

Ray Badman will greet you as you enter the diverse display showroom with the latest country, contemporary and traditional kitchen and bath cabinets. Ray's casual and relaxed personality will put you at ease immediately. Ray has installed many manufacturer's brands of cabinets for more than 16 years. He has chosen Quaker Maid and Rich Craft because of their unequalled quality, design and stability of the companies.

Ray's knowledge of the many facets of cabinetry including design, space-saving features and installation is unequalled in the area. You will feel comfortable having him adapt a design to fit any financial need you might have. He has sub-contracted for many successful kitchen showrooms throughout Massachusetts. He has a reputation for quality work, customer satisfaction and highest integrity. He will also complete or supervise all work personally.

Come in today for a view of the showroom and review the features and designs of each display.

can serve to interrupt lengthy spans of counter space.

One idea Mr. Radoy offers to homeowners with L-shaped or U-shaped kitchens is to install the cooktop at a lower level than that of the adjacent counters. In addition to adding a customized look, the lower height adds convenience by allowing cooks a better view into pots and saucepans on the stove.

Another dramatic configuration integrates double-door base end units with doors at 27-degree angles with adjacent drawer cabinets. The result is a geometric island, adding architectural style, modern convenience and additional storage space.

Knee opening for chairs or stools also can be incorporated for added function.

To give your kitchen a totally coordinated look, many cabinet manufacturers, such as Merillat Industries, now offer matching appliance panels for the dishwasher and refrigerator.

Panels feature door-front detailing and are specifically designed to coordinate with your particular cabinetry.

The creative use of lighting is another way to add drama to any kitchen. Low voltage lighting above and below cabinets is ideal for accenting decorative display pieces while recessed spotlights in the ceiling or soffit provide focused light over work areas.

"An updated and modern kitchen adds convenience, beauty and value to any home," says Mr. Radoy. "And with the wide range of ready-to-install cabi-

Factory-built home facts and fallacies: Test your 'Home IQ'

A growing number of Americans these days live in manufactured homes built in factory, rather than the traditional site-built homes. See if you can separate the facts from the fallacies when it comes to manufactured homes:

True or False:

1. The quality of manufactured homes is poor.

2. Materials used in building manufactured homes are second-rate.

3. Manufactured homes are not strong.

4. Manufactured homes take too long to build.

5. Manufactured homes don't appreciate in value.

6. Manufactured homes are not safe.

7. Manufactured homes don't last.

8. Manufactured homes aren't attractive.

9. Manufactured homes are the same as mobile homes and trailers.

10. Manufactured homes are not the wave of the future.

Answers:

The answer to all the above statements is "False," says the Manufactured Housing Institute.

The kitchen is the new living room for many Americans

Today, we want more than just a kitchen in our home. We want to create a home in our kitchen... A place where we can gather with family and friends to share dinner, tales of the day, holidays...

We think of today's kitchen as a room that generates warmth for the rest of the house like a big-hearted mother," says Rus Orban of Rutt Custom Cabinetry. But he is quick to warn that such a room must be planned carefully.

"It's not enough to just move in a TV set," he says. "If you want a truly welcoming expanded kitchen... or "Great Room," as we call it today... then it must be well-organized and beautiful. That's why we interview families carefully before we design their cabinetry and other Great Room furnishings. We need to know about their hobbies and lifestyles, what kind of cooks they are, how they entertain and much, much more."

Mr. Rutt illustrates Orban's point with a show-stopping Great Room displayed at this year's National Kitchen & Bath Show. Here is not only a beautiful and efficient kitchen, custom-designed for a family that loves to cook, needs storage aplenty and cares about recycling, but, beyond the counter for casual meals, there's also a wonderful family room with a big-screen entertainment center, a computer-equipped work area, displays for books and collectibles, a well-equipped refreshment center and, of course, cushy seating.

The cabinets are from Rutt's new Empire group inspired by the neoclassical looks of early 19th-century French and English design. For example, the sink base cabinets feature the bowed front characteristic of French bombe chests and wall cabinets boast beveled glass with a diamond-shaped inset. Drawer pulls are brass duplicating the drape and tassel designs of the Napoleonic period.

It's an elegant look, right for a Great Room where people can entertain, but with an easy air, thanks to the champagne finish on beautifully crafted hardwood. However, in the spirit of true custom cabinetry, such woods as cherry, oak and maple in a wide variety of finishes are also available.

The special arrangement made with Philips to have that firm's world-class Home Theatre with Compact Disc Interactive TV and music system made available through Rutt's network of dealers proves just how far custom cabinetry has moved beyond its traditional kitchen role.

More cabinetry ideas for kitchens, family rooms, baths and more can be seen in Rutt's 700-page Folio. Send $7 to Rutt, 1564 Main St., P.O. Box 129, Goodville, Pa. 17528.

The kitchen section of Great Room, featuring Rutt's new "Empire" cabinetry, is custom-designed for a family that likes to cook. The adjoining space with its Home Theatre entertainment center, computer work area, bar and displays for books and art objects is as perfect for everyday family living as it is for more formal entertaining.

Microwave ovens have earned their keep in kitchens

It is estimated that more than 80 percent of U.S. households own at least one microwave oven. This versatile appliance has captured the hearts of homeowners because of its quick-cooking capability and easy operation.

One of the best features a microwave oven offers is easy clean-ability. A simple wipe-up with a soft cloth or sponge takes care of most spatters. But even more important than just keeping the appliance looking nice is the fact that frequent cleaning also helps ensure the best cooking performance.

According to KitchenAid product experts, food soils in the oven absorb microwave energy that should be used to cook the food. In addition, unpleasant odors may develop if food soils build up on the interior surfaces. The home economists suggest you keep a roll of paper towels handy near the oven to wipe the oven's interior when you notice a spillover. If more than a quick wipe-up is needed, use a soft cloth dipped in mild detergent and rinse with warm water.

For stubborn soils, boil a cup of water in the oven for two or three minutes. The steam will soften the soil for easy removal.

Food waste disposers are a responsible convenience

Using a sink-mounted, food waste disposer is not only a home convenience, it actually improves sanitation and is environmentally responsible, according to independent research.

Disposers are being used by 51 percent of all households as a means for discarding kitchen food waste. In fact, more than 90 U.S. communities, including major metropolitan areas such as Los Angeles, Denver and Detroit, now require disposers in all new dwellings.

As a result, food waste is a declining portion of the garbage that goes into landfills. A July 1992 EPA report noted that food waste accounted for 8.5 percent of all discarded waste, down from 15 percent in 1960. Food waste disposers require only minimal water and electricity for operation. In a typical household of four people, operating a disposer requires less than 2.25 gallons of water per day.

A D-I-Y remodeled kitchen is possible, saving many dollars

By Home Depot

Tired of looking at your dingy old kitchen cabinets? Or maybe you think a little more light will draw you in to create gourmet meals instead of having your kitchen appear as a deep, dark den you've used for heating up last night's leftover hamburger helper.

On the other hand, maybe you'd just like to change some wallpaper, add a few strokes or paint and have a comfortable, cozy kitchen to sit in and chat with the family.

Whatever your situation, it's time to do something about it.

I did, and my husband helped. Or should I say, "My husband did and I helped?" Whatever, we now have bright, cheery, completely functional kitchen that has made our urban townhouse seem more like home. Almost.

You see, Matt and I are do-it-yourselfers. None of this hiring somebody else to do our dirty work. No, if someone's going to get into our house and improve it, it's going to be us. Not only do we get the sense of pride and accomplishment every time we walk into our home, we also save a lot of cash. A whole lot of cash.

A friend or ours started remodeling his kitchen about the same time we did. Let me rephrase that - a friend of ours hired somebody to remodel his kitchen about the same time we started working on ours. Both kitchens are about the same size and both have similar appliances - a stove/oven combo, refrigerator, dishwasher and a microwave that sits on a counter.

Our friend says his kitchen cost around $10,000 to remodel, not including new appliances. Our kitchen, including appliances, cost about $3,500 to redo entirely from floor to ceiling. Not bad. At this rate, we treated ourselves to a new dining room suite because we actually saved money.

I know what you're thinking - a kitchen is a tough job to tackle. Not really, neither Matt nor I are do-it-yourself gurus. Matt writes computer programs for a living and I write stories. We do, however, have help from a few friends at the Home Depot. Whenever we reach a part of the job we're not quite sure about, we either make a trip to the store for in-depth advice or call for a quick answer to a simple question.

Most of our cost-savings came from using ready-to-assemble cabinets. The cabinets couldn't have been difficult to put together because I watched Matt sit in front of the television, screwdriver in hand, and soon he had several completed cabinets surrounding him. Matt doing the work himself saved us almost 50 percent of the cost of ready-made cabinets.

Also, you wouldn't think new lighting would make that big of a difference. For less than $50, however, we installed two fluorescent light fixtures that not only triple the brightness of the room, but decrease our energy bill as well. The lighting installation also took less than two hours.

I mentioned earlier that we almost have a bright, cheery, completely functional kitchen. The "almost" is the only drawback I see to do-it-yourself work. For the last two months, our kitchen has been "almost" finished. It's not that the work is overly time consuming, it's just that some weekends were sunny and more suitable for a breezy drive through the mountains than they were for installing cabinets. And it's always better to go to dinner and a movie after work than it is to finish painting.

In real work time, the process should have taken us about four dedicated work weekends. With all of our entertainment distractions, though, it's been almost five months since we started the kitchen. That's not such a long time, however, when I consider that our friend, the guy who hired a contractor, waited about four months for his kitchen to be completed.

As far as the remodeling work itself, we had fun doing it. Most of the time. It would have been really interesting for someone to walk into our kitchen not knowing what we were doing, to see Matt and me both on our hands and knees pushing rolling pins across the floor. We were smoothing out our new linoleum, of course.

And it also would have been a lot of fun to be a fly on the wall and watch Matt, a man about 6'1" weighing in at more than 250 pounds, get excited and flash an ear-to-ear grin when he plugged in the stove he had moved from one wall to the other. Imagine, it actually worked when he turned it on!

I guess the most fun is watching Matt walk into the kitchen and place his hands on

There are some healthy alternatives in the kitchen

Health-conscious people, and lots of other people too, have been discovering a variety of interesting new high-fiber grains that are, in reality, very old. Rich in complex carbohydrates, with exotic names like kamoot (first grown in ancient Egypt), delicate quinoa, hearty cracked bulgur and kasha or buckwheat, a favorite with Russians and Middle Europeans, which is actually a fruit and can be enjoyed even if you're allergic to wheat.

To create easy, tempting, nutritionally balanced warm-weather meals, with very little fat, cook grains quickly until tender but still firm, chill, then combine with healthful fruits or vegetables plus a reduced-fat protein source such as versatile Jarlsberg or Jarlsberg Lite cheese. Both are all-natural, mellow, deceptively "creamy" in consistency and popular. Both are made using part-skim milk. Newer Lite is extra low in calories, sodium and fat.

Create visual interest with a white kitchen

The trend toward white kitchens really turns you on, but the white-on-white look is just too bland for your tastes. Can a kitchen be white without the appearance of boring sameness?

"Actually, doing all or a major portion of a kitchen in white allows more personal creativity in designing a space that's definitely neither bland nor boring," say home economists from Whirlpool Corporation.

They suggest combining white-finished cabinets with contrasting black glass appliances, using touches of brass for cabinet hardware and surrounding the white areas with natural wood tones. The white kitchen pictured here incorporates white cabinets with grooved panels and a combination of solid and windowed doors. Varied-height base cabinets are topped by white counters with contrasting wood edging. A ceiling skylight and hardwood floors emphasize the basic white and black of the kitchen center.

According to Whirlpool home economists, this broken "U" kitchen is just as efficient as it is beautiful. On the right, a deluxe baking center features a combination full-size microwave oven and 30-inch self-cleaning electric oven. The elevated end of the adjacent center island offers a convenient spot for handling and serving food from the ovens.

Adjoining the baking center, the food storage area features a deluxe 25-cu.-ft. side-by-side refrigerator-freezer. The grooved wood panels installed in its doors match those of surrounding cabinets, giving the appliance a built-in appearance.

Around the corner, the cooking center features a black glass cooktop that incorporates four high-speed elements and an easy-clean surface. To take care of steam and cooking odors, a Whirlpool exhaust hood is installed above the cooktop.

Whirlpool appliances installed in the sink clean-up center include a food waste disposer, a trash compactor and dishwasher. This center in the left end of the broken "U" is conveniently located to both the island and the eating area, offering handy disposal of food wastes and convenient dishwasher loading of soiled dishes.

The eating area, with its glass-topped wicker table, uses patterned accessories that coordinate with the small-print wallpaper design used in both the kitchen and sunny dining alcove. Wicker accessories on counters and green plants atop upper cabinets tie the design elements together, creating a feeling of harmony between high technology and nature.

◀ Create a white kitchen that's anything but bland.

What a kitchen designed for 1990s singles should have

How do you design a kitchen for singles? "That's a timely question for the 1990s," say home economists from Whirlpool Corporation, who note that recent census data show that nearly 25 percent of the 93 million households in the United States have only one person in them. Clearly, there's a real need for efficient kitchens for "singles."

To help in planning kitchens for singles, Whirlpool home economists offer these practical suggestions: Keep the design simple, stick to the basics, plan for convenient use and select quality products and materials that are easy to clean and maintain.

For example, this Whirlpool kitchen for one uses a simple "L" shape with a center island, includes basic appliances and incorporates a stylish black-and-white color scheme with red accents. The end of the island serves as a table for one, conveniently located next to the Whirlpool gas cooktop. This white-on-white cooking appliance sports sealed gas burners for easy surface clean-up, even if there's a boil-over.

Adjacent to the sink and across from the cooking and eating island is an ultra-quiet Whirlpool dishwasher. This white-on-white unit is not only stylish and easy to operate, it also offers multiple cycles and such convenience features as silverware basket in the door, adjustable upper rack and air drying.

The wall oven is a 27-inch Whirlpool self-cleaning electric model that includes an automatic electronic clock with oven controls and minute timer. The sleek white-on-white oven has an oven light and window in the door to allow a novice cook to peek during cooking.

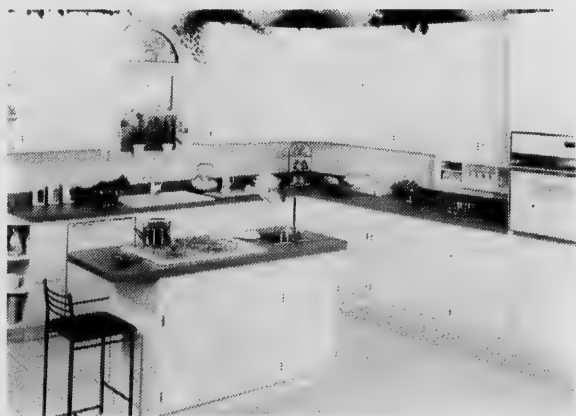

Not shown, but to the left of the oven and at the end of the kitchen "L" is an all-white, 18-cu.ft. Whirlpool no-frost refrigerator with a top freezer that has a time- and work-saving automatic icemaker. Installed under the upper cabinet between the refrigerator and wall oven is a mid-size white-on-white Whirlpool microwave oven.

This speedy cooking appliance is one that singles (and most everyone else) consider to be essential in today's kitchen.

"While this design is very simple and basic, it's highly effective as an efficient "can-do" kitchen for one.

According to home economists from Whirlpool Corporation, a kitchen designed for today's busy singles should have simple lines, easy-care materials and modern appliances with features that offer convenient use and maximum cleanability.

Here's the wireless wonder: cable TV without the cable

They've been calling it the wireless wonder. Actually, it's cable television without the cable, a new type of cable television system that offers subscribers a mix of broadcast and satellite channels.

Wireless cable uses Super High Frequency (SHF) channels to transmit satellite cable programming over the air instead of through overhead or underground wires.

Of interest to viewers as well as investors is that the Federal Communications Commission is encouraging wireless cable television. The FCC has authorized 88 SHF channels in each market which can be utilized by wireless cable operators to transmit cable programming.

According to experts at Continental Wireless Cable Television, Inc., this is a $165 million a year industry that could grow to $1 billion by 1996.

In Corpus Christi, Texas, more than 90 percent of all cable subscribers use the wireless service.

This year Continental launched a wireless system in Nashville and can barely keep up with the demand for the new service. New Orleans is the next major market where a wireless system is being built.

Among the advantages of wireless cable are:

- As good or better picture quality
- Better reliability and service
- Excellent programming availability
- Lower costs to consumers
- Increased profits to owners

For more information about wireless cable television and new partnership opportunities, contact Continental Wireless, 4365 Executive Drive, 15th floor, San Diego, Calif. 92121, or call 1-800-536-9578.

Warm weather food safety tips

Warm up to food safety: That's the message from the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), which warns there are more cases of food poisoning during the warm weather months.

It's important to take extra care when preparing cookouts and picnics, the experts agree. Here's some food for thought:

- Don't use food from damaged containers. Check cans and glass jars for dents, cracks or bulging lids, paper packages for leaks and stains.

- In the kitchen, clean preparation is essential. Wash hands, work area and utensils before preparing food. Marinate in the refrigerator. Don't thaw on the counter.

- Keep food cold. This is the best way to fight bacteria. Check that your refrigerator registers a safe 40 degrees F or lower; freezers and freezing compartments should be set at 0 degrees F or lower. When transporting food to a barbecue or picnic site, pack meat, poultry, salads and other perishables in an insulated cooler with an ice source and keep it in the shade.

- Keep hot foods hot with a thermos or insulated dish.

- Keep cold food cold until cooking on the grill. Also, be sure the coals on your grill are very hot - this may take 30 minutes or more. When you cook raw meat, poultry and fish, cook it thoroughly - ground meat and poultry should not be pink, juices should run clear and fish should flake with a fork. Use a clean plate for serving cooked food and be careful that raw meat juices don't touch other food.

- In hot weather, food should never sit out for longer than one hour. Serve food quickly from the cooler and replace it inside the cooler fast.

- Leftovers? If there's still ice in the cooler when you get home and the food didn't sit out at the picnic, the food is okay to save.

If you have questions about summer food safety, call the USDA Meat and Poultry Hotline at 1-800-535-4555. Hours: Monday-Friday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

"mobile homes" and "trailers."

10. With more and more site-built homes incorporating factory-built components, such as roof trusses, into their construction, it is likely that factory-built housing will continue to grow. In some countries, such as Sweden, factory-built housing accounts for 98 percent of all housing.
